Daladier Obtains New Majority at Riotous Session

Premier's New Strength Based Upon Conservative Support; Vote of Confidence 315 to 241

Three Roads Open

Premier May Continue With Present Hold, Seek LeBrun Help or May Resign

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—Premier Daladier carved out a new but fragile majority in the chamber of deputies today, enabling him to carry on his strike smashing and his fight against Italy's colonial ambitions.

The "strong man" of France, nevertheless, appeared to be the political prisoners of his own divided Radical—Socialist party.

In a riotous session of the chamber which lasted until 2:25 a. m., the best Daladier could wring from the quarrelling, shouting deputies was a majority of 74 votes out of the chamber's 618.

The vote of confidence was 315 to 241.

His new majority was based on conservative support, ranging all the way from his own moderately Conservative party to the extreme Right French Social party.

The Socialist and Communists, who formerly joined with the Radical Socialists to form the People's Front, voted solidly against Daladier.

Three Possible Roads

The Premier seemed to be faced with three possible roads—all fraught with danger:

He may continue with the present shaky majority.

He may ask President Lebrun and the senate to dissolve the chamber and go back to the people for new elections.

He may resign in the hope of forming a new government based on more solid parliamentary ground.

The last two steps, however, would only be "last resorts," his associates indicated.

Daladier's friends appeared to be convinced he would take the first road for the present.

Convene on Tuesday

Daladier asked the chamber to convene again Tuesday morning to begin debate on the 1939 budget.

The Communists and Socialists greeted the new Rightist majority with bitter oral and journalistic attacks, leaving no doubt that they would do everything they could to overthrow the premier.

Daladier, in calling for a vote of confidence, warned that "the integrity of France depends first on the French."

"It is only when a country is strong that it can rise to prevent anyone from touching its territory," he declared.

"We are at an hour when brutal frankness is better than all hypocracies. You must decide today to overthrow me or to permit me to continue my efforts."

Twice during the stormy session the disorder became so great that Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber, put on his hat ceremoniously and stalked out, thereby suspending the session.

Posters Deride British

Berlin, Dec. 10 (AP)—Huge illustrated posters on bulletin boards of Nazi precinct headquarters today depicted British soldiers firing on Arabs and destroying Arab villages. Readers were informed that "world conscience is asleep when England's soldiers mow down Arabs with their guns, but it is awake when a few windows of Jewish junk shops and synagogues are smashed in Germany." The posters close with a warning that "the more insolent attempts of meddlers at interfering with internal German problems become, the more radically we will solve these problems."

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—The position of the Treasury December 8: Receipts, $13,440,566.25; expenditures, $23,063,174.77; net balance, $2,360,443,292.71, including $1,739,249,582.89 working balance; customs receipts for the month, $7,920,869.90; receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $2,331,192,460.24; expenditures, $3,894,873,401.68, including $1,286,240,570.78 of emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures, $1,563,680,941.44; gross debt, $38,667,177,176.86, an increase of $1,214,821.77 over the previous day; gold assets, $14,367,666,216.26.

State Won't Give City More Funds For WPA Projects

Commissioner Adie Notifies Authorities Here That No More Will Be Allotted For Relief Purposes

Kingston will receive no additional funds which could be used in placing more men at work on WPA projects in the city, according to word just received today by Mayor C. J. Heiselman from Commissioner David C. Adie of the State Social Welfare Department.

Mayor Heiselman when seen today stated that when he had read in the press that New York city had applied for additional funds for relief purposes, that he believed Kingston was also entitled to consideration. The mayor said that the city employed more men, in proportion to population, on WPA projects than any other municipality in the state.

For that reason, he said, he took the matter up with the state department on December 7, and received a reply to his communication today. Commissioner Adie in his letter stated that the welfare department at its last meeting had denied the request of the city of New York for additional funds, and for that reason could not consider Kingston's request.

Would Void Czech Pact

Prague, Dec. 10 (AP)—Voiding of Czechoslovakia's mutual assistance pact with Soviet Russia was demanded by Vice-Premier Karol Sidor today in a speech to constituents in which he formulated the Slovaks' foreign and political program. Further demands included renunciation of the League of Nations and dissolution of Czechoslovak volunteer formations in the army of government Spain. Economics Minister Pavel Teplansky declared Jews in autonomous Slovakia would enjoy rights proportionate to their numbers. Jews in Slovakia number about four per cent of the population.

Licenses Revoked

Two Ulster county men have had their driving licenses revoked, according to an announcement made by Carroll E. Mealey, commissioner of motor vehicles. Both licenses were revoked for reckless driving. The two men are Carl Paltridge of Modena and Emile Sager of Highland.

December Lightning Amazes Local People

The phenomenal weather of this season which began with a sustained autumnal mild spell from late September to late November and was climaxed on Thanksgiving with a snow storm of the blizzard variety, took another sudden shift early this morning in the midst of recent warm rains.

Residents of the area were awakened about 3 a. m., by the rolling peal of thunder and some report seeing several flashes of lightning. The brief electrical storm was accompanied by a heavy downpour for several minutes.

Local weather prophets seem to disagree as to whether lightning in December is a forecast of warmer or colder weather.

The general public is invited to attend the inaugural and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance.

On Tuesday morning Student Mayor Kershaw and his cabinet will take over the government of the city. That day will be known as Student Government Day.

Supervisors Get Committee Reports; Will Meet Monday

Reports of standing committees including that of the committee on supervisors' bills, were heard at the meeting of the board of supervisors last evening and a recess was taken until Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is expected that the report of the committee on appropriations will be made early next week, probably Monday evening.

The committee on supervisors' bills reported bills to the amount of $15,417.65, which had been examined and found to be in proper form for auditing. Supervisors Smith, Kniffin and Schuler moved that the report be adopted and that the amount be assessed and levied against the county. Over under the rule.

Bills for care of inmates in the county home and for children in Industrial and boarding homes chargeable back to the various towns and city of Kingston were reported in proper form and to the amount stated in the report of the county commissioner of public welfare by the committee on county commissioner of public welfare, Messrs. Kelsch, S. Williams and H. Snyder, and the report was received and filed.

The committee on county purchasing agent and county auditor reported that bills in the sum of $8.80 were correct and in proper form, and Messrs. Sutton, Smith and Kniffin moved that the amount of $8.80 be assessed and levied against the county to pay same. Over under the rule.

There was a communication from the county superintendent of highways stating that that section of Route 28 which has been abandoned by the state highway department by reason of the construction of the new 4-lane route from the Jones property at Stony

Anthony Eden Says Idolatry Greatest Threat to Democracy

Secretary Hull to Speak

Pan-American Conference Looks to United States Cabinet Member as One of Keynote Speakers at Lima Convention Hall

Lima, Peru, Dec. 10 (AP).—The Pan-American conference looked to Secretary Cordell Hull and the foreign ministers of Argentina and Peru today for keynote speeches charting a course for the 21 republics of the western hemisphere.

Delegates thronging this Peruvian capital evinced keen interest in the three speeches, scheduled for a late afternoon session, which were expected not only to call for closer Pan-American cooperation, but perhaps to indicate how far their respective governments were willing to go.

With Secretary Hull on the second day's conference program were Foreign Minister Jose Maria Cantilo of Argentina and Dr. Carlos Concha, foreign minister of Peru.

Peru's dynamic president, Oscar Benavides, opened the conference yesterday with the assertion that the western hemisphere "wishes to be strong in order to be respected."

Community of Ideals

Though stressing the community of ideals and interests that link American nations, Benavides was careful to say such unity did not cut the western hemisphere off from the rest of the world.

Soon after the formal opening, Assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle, Jr., told a radio audience that the United States was not seeking military alliances with the Latin American republics.

Such a course was "obviously out of the question," Berle asserted, denying rumors he said were current.

Nations of the western hemisphere "have not lived under a system of military alliances, nor so far as I know does any of them care to start such a system now," he declared.

Among delegates, however, there were indications an outright declaration for mutual assistance in case of foreign aggression might be made by the conference.

Now that the Cuban and Argentine delegations have broken the ground by submitting projects for consideration, the first condemning racial persecution and the second advocating regular meetings among the American foreign ministers for mutual consultation, it was expected the various delegations would come forward with proposals.

Close Attention

Foreign Minister Cantilo's speech was watched with particular attention because Argentina, with traditionally strong ties to Great Britain, has indicated opposition to any commitments for continental defense along the lines of President Roosevelt's wishes.

Secretary Hull's speech was expected to outline United States hopes for the conference and possibly to give hint of a project for unifying the existent peace, conciliation and arbitration accords that link the American nations.

Conference delegates got down last night to their first executive business after the opening formalities and drew up lists of representatives to serve on conference committees.

Alf M. Landon, Republican presidential candidate in 1936, was considered the probable United States representative on one of the most important committees, that for the organization of peace.

Alfrania De Mello Franco, former foreign minister of Argentina, suggested last night that American nations unite to defend their institutions against subversive propaganda organized abroad.

Speaking at a banquet given the delegates by Concha, the Argentine delegate pointed out that though American nations had opened their territorities to peoples of all nationalities "these foreigners do not constitute minorities."

Meteors Are Due

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Geminid meteors are due to show in the western sky during the three evenings beginning Sunday night. These meteors are named for the constellation Gemini, in the part of the sky from which they appear to come. In the last two years, watchers have reported counting from 24 to 96 of these meteors an hour. Unlike most meteor "showers" the Geminids appear in the largest numbers before midnight. Their constellation is fairly low in the western sky. Their color is very white, their paths short. They often leave illuminated trails.

Means Still Critical

Springfield, Mo., Dec. 10 (AP)—Gaston B. Means, perpetrator of a Lindbergh ransom hoax, remained in a "critical, unchanged condition" at the Federal Medical Center here today. Dr. M. R. King, warden, said Means is near death of a heart ailment aggravated by a gall bladder operation Tuesday. Means is serving a 16-year sentence for defrauding Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean of Washington, D. C., of $104,000 in her efforts to ransom the kidnaped and murdered Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Utilities Compare With Fascism in Eyes of TVA Men

Schwartz and Rankin Say There Is Similarity; Term Private Industry Powerful and Corrupt

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Two members of Congress compared private utilities with Fascism before the TVA investigating committee today.

Senator Schwartz (D.-Wyo.), a committee member, and Representative Rankin (D.-Miss.), staunch TVA advocate who appeared as a witness, said there was a similarity.

Rankin, co-author of the TVA act, was testifying on TVA benefits when Schwartz interrupted to observe that some persons had suggested the TVA program "was Socialistic."

"I wonder if the integration of private utilities is not a form of Fascism?" the western senator asked.

"It is the most powerful and corrupt influence ever organized. . . ."

In launching into an attack on the utility industry, Rankin said its leaders had "attempted to intimidate the courts."

"They have bribed legislators directly and indirectly," he added. "They have attempted to intimidate the press in some sections. They have been tried to influence the churches."

Asserting that present utility rates were more than $1,000,000,000 above necessary levels, Rankin said "it's no wonder they have even tried to write school text books in the past."

Senator Donahey (D-Ohio), committee chairman who seldom comments at hearings, broke in to say that "public utilities in my state, Ohio, have collected more from the people than all of the combined taxes."

Rankin said that "over-charges on electric consumers would repay the entire public debt in 40 years—some people say in 20 years."

Rankin called TVA the 'most profitable investment the American people have made since the Louisiana Purchase."

The gray-thatched Mississippi congressman, a co-author of the TVA act, told the congressional committee investigating the agency that TVA "yardstick rates" had reduced America's light and power bill $556,000,000 a year.

"The consumers of electricity are saving more than twice as much each year as the entire TVA development will cost," Rankin said. "And these savings will be continued and increased as time goes on, unless this yardstick is destroyed."

He contended elimination of "inflated values" and "stock manipulations" would enable private utilities to reduce rates to the TVA yardstick levels.

He asserted also that many private power companies were selling "firm power" at a profit for less than rates charged by TVA.

Statesman Emphasizes Need For U.S.-Anglo Bond of Feeling

Receives Ovation

'State . . . Made for Man'

ANTHONY EDEN

Former British Foreign Secretary Makes Spectacular Race Against Elements to Keep Appointment

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Anthony Eden, trim former foreign secretary of Great Britain, spoke out emphatically last night for the preservation of the democracy which "we in England and you in America cherish most," and saw as the greatest threat to that democracy "a new form of idolatry, the worship of the state."

Eden's address to the National Association of Manufacturers was a ringing defense of democracy as "a university in which we learn from one another. It can never be a barracks where blind obedience is the first essential."

"It would indeed be the greatest irony in human history," he told the 4,000 persons at the banquet and a nation-wide radio audience, "if mankind were to allow all progress to be stifled by the setting up" of this "worship of the state to which all men must bow down, and to which they must sacrifice their freedom of faith, of speech, of worship."

"Man was not, in your view, made for the state. The state was made for man," he said.

The British statesman, who resigned his cabinet post in a difference of opinion with Prime Minister Chamberlain over policies toward dictatorships, stressed that Great Britian and the United States must stand together against the enemies of democracy and "we are acutely conscious of the need to defend ourselves."

Spectacular Arrival

A spectacular race against time and weather preceded Eden's arrival in New York. The liner Acquitania, which Eden and his party boarded a week ago, was delayed by fog and storms at sea. A special cutter went down a rain drenched bay, to meet the ship and carried Eden to the battery, from where a police escort rushed him to the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

A quick change from street clothes and Eden was in white tie and tails and facing his first American audience—an audience which gave him an ovation which he described as "one I shall never forget."

Describing himself as "an average Englishman here only on a friendly visit and in nowise official," Eden said "we must be constantly re-examining our political faith and applying it to the conditions of the modern world.

"Every political system, be it democratic or autocratic, must continually evolve, and in the last resource the survival of democracy must depend upon the faith which it inspires, and the results which, through faith, it can achieve."

"Democracy must have the strength of the best tempered steel, not rigid, but supple," he added. "It must have the strength of the highest form of discipline —self-discipline."

Eden's remarks were repeatedly interrupted by applause as he lightened his defense of democracy with quips on the American Revolution and English traditions.

". . . We are No Paragons"

"We in Britain know full well that we are no Paragons," he said laughingly. "If we happen to forget it a moment someone will be sure to remind us of it. We acknowledge of course that there are many chequered pages in our long history. One of the worst concerns our dealings with you 160 years ago."

In another vein, Eden said "We know we are destined, in our land and in our time and in our generation, to live in a period of emergency of which none can see the end."

"If throughout that testing

Brooklyn Hunter Dies on Mountain Of Heart Seizure

Joseph M. Keeler, 55, Found on Tremper Mountain Last Evening; Exhaustion Is Thought Contributory

Joseph M. Keeler, 55 years old, of 202 Wakeman Place, Brooklyn, who had been hunting in the Catskills for the past several days was found dead from heart attack last evening on Tremper mountain near Phoenicia. Keeler had been hunting at Oliverea for several days and then came to Chichester where he was stopping at the Herbert Shultis farm.

Thursday morning about 6:30 o'clock with Shultis and William Grant, he left the house and started on a hunting trip. During the day he became separated from his companions and when he failed to return Thursday night a searching party was established.

Friday, State Troopers Ray Dunn and Walter Obuhanich organized a posse of volunteers to scout the woods in an effort to locate the missing man. Later Friday the body was found up on Tremper mountain about a mile from the clearing. The body was found on a rock with the rifle alongside and from appearance Keeler had become exhausted climbing the mountain and died from a heart attack.

Word was sent to Coroner Howard B. Humiston and the remains were carried about a mile to the road and turned over to Undertaker H. Lee Breitbaupt and Bros., of Phoenicia and the dead man's relatives notified. He is survived by his wife and four children. Coroner Humiston made an investigation and pronounced death due to valvular heart trouble. No autopsy was ordered. Relatives arrived later and made arrangements for taking the body to Brooklyn for services.

Keeler operated an automobile repair business on Northern Boulevard, Queens.

Suggests Rations

San Francisco, Dec. 10 (AP). — A startling suggestion that narcotic addicts be placed on rations, under medical supervision, and the state hospital at Spadra be scrapped as a useless expense is under consideration by California's Democratic governor-elect, Culbert L. Olson. The unusual proposal came from William G. Walker, enforcement chief of the state narcotic's division, who frankly states his belief all narcotic users are incurable.

Methodical Safety Campaigns Cut Nation's Death Toll in 1938

(By the Associated Press)

Intensive, methodical safety campaigns have slashed sharply into the nation's traffic death toll this year.

A survey of 35 leading cities—all but one of them among the top 40 in population—showed today this situation for the first week of December.

Ten cut their death toll by 40 per cent or more, compared with the same period of 1937.

At least ten of the other 25 reducing their traffic mortality rate 15 to 35 per cent, with many others showing improvements; and only five apparently heading for an increased fatality list.

The nation's population centers have accepted with the "three e's" — enforcement, education and engineering — the challenge of the reckless driver, the jaywalking pedestrian.

The 68 per cent slash for Providence, R. I., where there were no fatalities for an 111-day stretch, placed it in the select list. Speeds were reduced to 25 miles an hour throughout the city and enforced without exception. Twelve persons have been killed to date this year, compared with 39 for the corresponding 1937 period.

Columbus, O., among the leaders with 58.3 per cent less deaths than the same period last year, takes offenders to court immediately.

Other leaders, and their approximate percentages decreases in traffic deaths, included:

Cleveland 48.2, Birmingham, Ala., 48.1; Louisville, Ky., 47.2; Detroit 45; Dallas 41; Milwaukee and Buffalo 40. Newark, N. J., where as in New York city figures were available only for the first ten months, showed a 60 per cent slash.

40 Persons Injured In Gale at Sydney

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 10. (AP).—A 75-mile an hour gale crippled Sydney and other cities today and fanned dangerous bush fires in outlying areas.

Forty persons were injured in blazes which broke out in Sydney suburbs and surrounding territory.

The high wind jolted a street car and a train from their tracks on the Sydney harbor's famous bridge.

'Bible Sunday' To Be Observed

The Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will celebrate Bible Sunday on Sunday evening, December 11, at 7:45 o'clock, with a special presentation of stereopticon slides on the subject: "The Book Goes Forth to Find New Friends." The slides illustrate the work of translating the Bible into foreign tongues and the method of distribution in the various lands.

Bible Sunday is an annual event sponsored by the American Bible Society and is usually held on the second Sunday in December in the Protestant churches throughout the land. This illustrated lecture shows most interestingly the work that the Bible Society is doing. Under its auspices either the whole or parts of the Bible have been translated into more than 1,000 languages. The public is invited to this service.

Two Girl Cousins' Lives Recall Days of Napoleon

Two girl cousins who grew up together in Martinique are highly revered in this island in the French West Indies. They are Josephine de Beauharnais, who married Napoleon and thus became empress of the French, and Aimee Debuc de Rivery, who, after being captured at sea by Algerian pirates and carried off to the Mediterranean, married the sultan of Turkey and became his favorite wife.

The beautiful Josephine de Beauharnais was born on a plantation at Trois Ilets. A white marble statue erected in her honor in Fort de France is considered the loveliest creation of its kind in the West Indies.

The other beautiful Martinican, Aimee Debuc de Rivery, had an exciting time before she became the sultana of Turkey. On her way home from school in France in 1784 the ship on which she was a passenger was captured by Algerian pirates. She was so lovely that the captain placed her in special quarters, and upon arriving at Algiers presented her as a gift to the dey. The dey, who owed the sultan a large sum of money for munitions and other necessities of piracy, turned the beauty over to the sultan as payment in full for his debt. Aimee then became the sultan's favorite wife and the power behind the Turkish throne.

There is a story to the effect that when she heard that Napoleon had divorced Josephine she was so angry that she sought a way to injure him. As the legend goes, she had a detachment of her army march through southwestern Russia while Napoleon was retreating from Moscow, helping to block the return of the French soldiers near the Polish line and causing great suffering and many deaths.

Initiate Mayor by Tap On Head With a Mallet

Very few of England's mayors are elected or inducted with the ceremony attached to London's lord mayor. Nevertheless, there are places where curious old customs persist, asserts a writer in London Answers magazine.

The mayor of Lincoln, for example, is inducted into his office by having an ancient ring placed on his finger. At Cheltenham the heart of the new mayor is made glad by the gift of a gold-headed malacca cane—a reminder, perhaps, of those days when it was his duty to keep public order in person.

But probably the mayors of Dunstable and Grantham have to face the most interesting, though not the most agreeable, ceremonies. The mayor of Dunstable, for his part, is well and truly "bumped," while the chief magistrate of Grantham, for some quaint reason lost in antiquity, is smartly tapped on the head with a mallet by the town clerk.

At British state occasions, the Archbishop of Canterbury takes precedence over everyone but the sovereign and his close kin.

PORT EWEN NEWS

Parent-Teacher Association Meets

Port Ewen, Dec. 10—The Parent-Teacher Association met at the school Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The meeting was opened by the reading of the national president's Christmas message by Mrs. William Schweigel, the president of the local unit.

The song "Christmas Pine," was sung.

Members were reminded to listen to the Parent-Teacher radio broadcast from 9:30 to 10 p. m. on Wednesday.

The president appointed the refreshment committee, consisting of Mrs. Raymond Howe, Miss Mary Folhemus and Mrs. Basil Potter, for the next meeting. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom will be the speaker. It will be "Father's Night."

It was voted to send the sum of $1 to the TB fund. The award for the month was won by Mr. Lewis' room.

Following the business meeting a piano solo was beautifully rendered by Ruth Buddenhagen.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. C. Nichols, district director from Highland Falls. She was introduced by Mrs. Raymond Howe. Her topic was "The Relation of the Local Unit to the State and National Groups." Her talk was filled with enthusiasm in the work she is doing in the Parent-Teacher field. She emphasized the fact of modern curriculum and modern methods rapidly taking the place of the old and of the many problems our schools and homes are confronted with because of this fact.

Some of the helps that are afforded us are county conferences, district conferences, state conventions, speakers, etc. Our local unit reports are a help to the larger groups.

A rising vote of thanks was given Mrs. Nichols for her splendid talk and refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Priscilla Society Party

Port Ewen, Dec. 10.—The Priscilla Society of the Methodist Church held its regular monthly business meeting and annual Christmas party at the church house Thursday evening. At 6:30 o'clock a pot luck supper was enjoyed. The room was decorated with evergreens. The table had a miniature snow village in the center, with small Santa Claus favors at each place. During the business meeting Miss Mary Bishop presented a gift from the society to the president, Mrs. Grace Zimmerman. The business meeting was followed by the arrival of Santa Claus with a pack well filled with gifts for everyone present. At the social hour following, games were played and Christmas songs were sung. Mrs. Gretel Clark sang "Holy Night" in German. Those present were the Rev. and Mrs. Frank Coutant, Mrs. Grace Zimmerman, president, Mrs. Lillian Mable, vice president, Miss Mary Bishop, secretary, Mrs. Wava Fowler, treasurer; Mrs. Amelia Rose, Mrs. Clara Tinney, Mrs. Bertha Doyle, Mrs. Florence Bonesteel, Mrs. Dora Fairbrother, Mrs. Ella Howe, Mrs. Jennie Schweigel, Mrs. Gladys Potter, Mrs. Gladys Woolsey, Mrs. Marguerite Kelly, Mrs. Gretel Clark, Mrs. Jeanette Fowler, Mrs. Florence Ellsworth, Mrs. Gladys Jump and Mrs. Minnie Middaugh of Kingston and the Misses Fern Lynn, Helen Atkins, Alice Laplue.

TO BUSINESS MEN AND THE UNEMPLOYED

Do you realize when the Townsend National Recovery Plan becomes a law it will usher in the greatest era of prosperity in the history of our country? The General Welfare Act (The Townsend Bill) to be introduced again in the coming Congress, proposes to pay to all citizens 60 years of age and over, under certain restrictions, an annuity not exceeding $200 per month, to be provided for by a 2% tax on every business transaction involving money consideration.

The first year or two this may yield only enough revenue to pay $100 per month, but statisticians, economists and statesmen assure us that in a comparatively short time the government will be able to pay $150 to $200 per month to each annuitant; and eventually it will have a surplus of five billion dollars annually for payment toward the National debt.

In Kingston (population nearly 30,000) at least 2,000 persons, men and women, would be eligible for this annuity. If this plan should pay only $100 per month, that would bring $200,000 a month to Kingston. This entire amount must be spent by the recipients each month for rational needs, both necessities and luxuries. It can be spent also for travel anywhere within the limits of the United States or its possessions, from Maine to Hawaii, or from Florida to Alaska. Stay-at-home folks can buy or build homes to their liking, buy a new car, etc.

In Memoriam

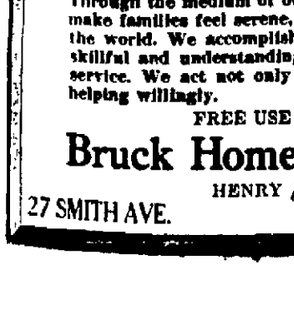

Thirteen years ago today,
God took our loving daughter Bernice away,
But silent thought and secret tears
Keeps her memory ever dear.
Mother and Father, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kirk.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving memory of my dear husband, George Wancsak, who departed this life seven years ago, December 10, 1931.
I cannot say, I will not say,
That he is dead, he is just away,
Always faithful, loving and kind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
(Signed) His Wife, Anna Wancsak.

Local Death Record

John Fredericks of Tillson died in this city today. The body was removed to the Frank J McCardle funeral home at Rosendale. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mrs. Bertha Griffin, 53, wife of Ellsworth Griffin, Briarcliff Manor, formerly of Stone Ridge, died at Ossining, December 9. Her funeral will be held from the family home Sunday at 10 a. m. with interment in Fair View cemetery, Stone Ridge. Services will be in charge of the Rev. Stanley North of Briarcliff Manor and the Rev. Harold Schadewald of Kerhonkson.

The funeral of Miss Janet E. Krom, daughter of Harry G. and the late Viella Freer Krom, was held from the family home in St. Remy this afternoon with the Rev. Clarance E. Brown, pastor of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Rosendale Plains cemetery. There was a profusion of floral offerings and the bearers, all members of the Order of DeMolay, were: Fred Buchanan, Victor Churchill, Roger Vreeland, Gordon Craig, Jr., Clifford Parslow and Earl Tongue.

William D. Styles, for 50 years treasurer of the St. James Church Sunday school and for nearly that time treasurer of the church, died at his home, 88 Clinton avenue, after a long illness. For many years Mr. Styles was employed by the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp., but for the past few years had led a retired life. He leaves surviving two sisters, Mrs. Clarence J. Ferguson of Scottsmoor, Florida, and Mrs. Kent Stanley Clark, of Schenectady; also one brother, Frank L. Styles, of Kingston, and several nieces and nephews. Those desiring to view the remains may do so at the funeral parlors of A. Carr & Son, Pearl street, any time on Sunday. The funeral will be private at the convenience of the family.

Anton Schuh, 51, of Rifton, died at the Kingston Hospital yesterday morning after a brief illness. Mr. Schuh, who was born in Germany, served in the German army during the World War. He came to this country about 14 years ago and was in business in Brooklyn until he retired to live in Rifton about three years ago. He is survived by his wife, Josephine Riehle Schuh; one son, Joseph F. Schuh at home, and one daughter, Mrs. John Hummel of Brooklyn. Mr. Schuh attended St. Peter's Church in Rosendale. The funeral will be held from the Funeral Home of Ernest A. Kelly, 111 West Chester street, Monday at 9 a. m. and from St. Peter's Church in Rosendale at 10 a. m. where a Mass will be offered. Burial will be in St. Peter's cemetery at Rosendale.

Funeral services for Thomas Flannery were held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the home of his niece, Mrs. Michael Fitzgerald, No. 40 West O'Reilly street and at 10 o'clock at St. Mary's Church where a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered by the Rev. William H. Kennedy as celebrant, the Rev. Benjamin Roth as deacon and the Rev. James P. Moore as sub-deacon. His relatives, neighbors, friends and older acquaintances from Wilbur were present at the services in large numbers. The Children's choir sang the responses at the Mass and at the conclusion they also sang, "The Miserere". On Friday evening at 8 p. m. a large delegation of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church headed by the Rev. Father Kennedy met at the home and recited the Rosary for the repose of his soul. The casket bearers were, Edward Ryan, George Cragan, Hugh Quigley, John McManus, John Scully and George Schick. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery where the Rev. Monsignor John J. Stanley gave the final absolution at the grave.

New Paltz, Dec. 10—Jacob Clearwater, 75, died at his home Thursday morning, December 8, after being ill since Sunday. Mr. Clearwater was the son of the late Thomas Clearwater and Amanda Silkworth Clearwater and was born in High Falls, February 27, 1863. In his young manhood, he worked on the farms of the late Isaac Hasbrouck in High Falls, for the late Reuben Bener in Springtown, then for the Railroad Company along the Wallkill Valley tracks. He then spent a little over nine years in Wallkill on the farm of the late John Terwilliger. While there he married Edith Carney, of High Falls, who died two years ago. He then came to New Paltz, where he has had employment on several farms till a short time ago. When health failed, he then did odd jobs. Mr. Clearwater is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clarence Place, of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. Irving Avery of Newburgh. Three sons, Eltinge, Frank and John Clearwater, all of New Paltz, two sisters, Mrs. Mary E. Kniffen, of New Paltz and Mrs. Clementine Stokes, of High Falls, two brothers, Robert Clearwater, of Poughkeepsie and Asa Clearwater of High Falls and seven grandchildren, Harvey and Ralph Clearwater, of New Paltz, John Allen and Earl Clarence Place, of Poughkeepsie and Florence Edith Avery, of Newburgh, and a number of nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held at his late home Sunday at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Lloyd cemetery.

Funeral services of Theobold Fogarty, former Kingston resident, who died at his home town, Camden, N. J., last Tuesday morning, were held in Camden at the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, where a solemn high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Father Hanley. Fathers Coreiston and Quinlan were deacon and sub-deacon, respectively, of the Mass. Following Mr. Fogarty's death his body lay in state at the Camden Council, No. 439, Knights of Columbus Home, where large numbers of his friends filed past the bier. An active member in K. of C. affairs, Mr. Fogarty was accorded full ceremonies of the council. A guard of honor of uniformed Fourth degree Knights, with upraised swords was posted about the casket in the home during the night prior to the funeral services. Camden Lodge, No. 111, of the Loyal Order of Moose, also conducted ritualistic services before his bier. The Holy Name Society and Rosary Society of the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception, of which Mr. Fogarty was a member, recited the rosary for the repose of his soul. Following the church services in Camden, Mr. Fogarty's body was brought to Kingston to the Henry J. Bruck Home for Funerals, where on Friday evening large numbers of former acquaintances and friends of his family came to pay their last respects to his memory. Kingston Council, No. 275, K. of C., led by their chaplain, the Rev. Henry E. Herdegen and Grand Knight Joseph Murphy, visited the Bruck Chapel and recited the rosary. In the presence of relatives and friends, the burial was made this morning in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery here, the Very Rev. Monsignor John J. Stanley giving the final absolution.

Black Eye Costs Donor $5 Today

It cost John Guadagnola of 5 Canal street the sum of $5 to blacken his wife's eye. That was the amount of the fine imposed on Guadagnola today in police court by Judge Mino when the case came up before him. Guadagnola had been arrested on the complaint of his wife who charged him with third degree assault.

Jack Groves of Akron, O., arrested for public intoxication, was given until noon to leave the city or serve ten days in the county jail.

Decides Heir Is Entitled To Dormant Bank Account

In 1878 John Holland, an Albany tailor, opened an account in the Albany Savings Bank. The last deposit in the account was in 1885. The acount lay dormant for years and when the bank failed to hear from Holland or his heirs the fund, now amounting to $2,284.83, was turned over to the state in 1937.

Some time ago George Carroll, 73, of Mill River, Mass., who said he was Holland's brother-in-law, filed a claim to the funds and when the state refused to turn over the money brought suit.

Yesterday, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, official referee, decided the issue in Carroll's favor.

Would Oust Italians

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—A request that the government oust Italians from professional occupations in Tunisia, Algeria and French Morocco in favor of Frenchmen was sent to the minister of colonies, Georges Mandel, by the Paris Students Federation today. The federation represents students of higher institutions of learning in the Paris region. "The federation prefers a realistic policy to vain shouting," the letter to the colonial minister said.

Seeks Cooperation

Mexico City, Dec. 10 (AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas in an unannounced radio address last night called on "all true followers of the revolution to cooperate to carry on the program." The president emphasized that the agrarian phase of his social reform program would be continued.

FOUR TRAINMEN HURT WHEN FLIER PILES UP

Despite the promiscuous tumbling about of coaches, no one was killed when this fast passenger train on the Missouri Pacific left the tracks near Austin, Tex. Four trainmen who were hurt were the only casualties. The overturned locomotive (left) was completely wrecked, and one car (upper right) plunged into a nearby cotton gin.

DODD HELD ON DRIVING CHARGE

William E. Dodd, Sr., of Round Hill, Va., former U. S Ambassador to Germany, shown as he arranged $2,000 bond at Hanover Courthouse, Va., on a hit-and-run driving charge. Dodd was charged with failing to stop after his motorcar hit Gloria Grimes, 4-year-old negro girl. The former ambassador said he was not aware his machine struck the child.

Restoration Started

Manila, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gradual restoration of communication facilities was expected to bring additional news today of death and destruction by a typhoon which roared through the central Philippine provinces Thursday. Already the death count had mounted to 56. Thousands were homeless. The number injured had not been compiled. Crop and livestock loss was expected to be great.

Green's New Telephone

Acting Superintendent Roland Green of the Board of Public Works has installed a telephone, the call number 1708-W, in his residence at 15 Arlington Place, where he may be gotten in touch with after office hours in case of necessity.

The various national censuses now cover approximately two-thirds of the world's population.

If you are one of these people who buys for the family what you want yourself, you'll be unanimously pleased if you select, for example, our knee-hole desk in maple, $21.50. To go with it there is an appropriate ladder-back chair, $7.75. So stunning a gift. So remarkably low-priced. So admirably suited to a boy's or girl's room, a den, in fact - any room.

Public Hearing Date Advanced

The public hearing planned by the common council for Monday evening has been postponed until Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the city hall, as Monday evening the inaugural ceremonies marking the induction into office of Student Mayor Charles Kershaw and his cabinet will be held in the council chambers.

The public hearing is for property owners, who have been charged by the city for snow removal from their properties and also for the installation of sewer laterals as to why the items should not be in the general tax against the properties next year.

New Plan Reported

Hendaye, France (at the Spanish frontier), Dec. 10 (AP)—Reports reaching border zones today indicated the Spanish insurgents were preparing a new offensive against government territory in northeast Spain to rival their bitter campaign last spring. The government, however, was reported planning a push of its own in southern and central Spain. Reports coming from smugglers in the Pyrenees indicated movements of troops and supplies behind the insurgent lines extended from Tortosa, on the Mediterranean, to the mountainous French-Spanish frontier.

The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. White of Schenectady, a son, Joseph Sheppard, in the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving R. Van Kleeck of 25 Jansen avenue, a son, Harry Frederick, in the Benedictine Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl LeRoy Williams of High Falls, a son, Raymond Harvey, in the Benedictine Hospital.

Fordham Wins

Jersey City, N. J., Dec. 10 (AP)—Fordham University's basketball team registered a 49-37 victory over St. Peter's College here last night. The defeat snapped a three-game winning streak of the home team.

Hi-Y Lawmakers Discuss Measures

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Legislation designed to require semi-annual inspection of automobiles went down to defeat today, but it was all part of the annual "model legislature" of New York's Hi-Y.

The vote in the "Assembly" was 80 to 57.

The clause that spelled defeat of the measure would have given the owner of a faulty vehicle ten days in which to make adjustments and, on his failure to do so within the specified time, would have suspended the car from operation until the next semi-annual inspection period.

"Even if I had the money to get it fixed after the ten days were up," argued one curly-headed "legislator," "I couldn't have my car for six months. I'm against it."

At the same time, the "Senate" sent back to committee a "bill" requiring compulsory liability insurance on all types of motor vehicles.

Thomas Fitzpatrick, of White Plains, N. Y., sponsor of the measure, argued safe-driving efforts are not sufficient because "there are too many chance elements—icy roads, fog, rain—involved in accidents. The victims should be assured of some recourse."

Action on the bill was deferred, after George Anderson, of Kingston, N. Y., pointed out that insurance does not necessarily lessen accidents.

Christmas Fund Total Is $952.69

Contributions of cash to Santa Claus's Christmas fund in Kingston to date totals $952.69, it was announced today at headquarters in the city hall. This amount includes the balance left from last year's fund and also includes the proceeds from the Police-Old Colonial baseball battle on August 10.

Last year the fund totaled $1,684.64.

It was stated that there were more children who would look to the Mayor's Christmas Cheer Committee for gifts on Christmas Day this year than last, and the committee is very anxious that cash contributions will exceed the amount contributed last year. There is also an urgent need of sleds, dolls and other toys which can be renovated in Santa Claus workshops in the city.

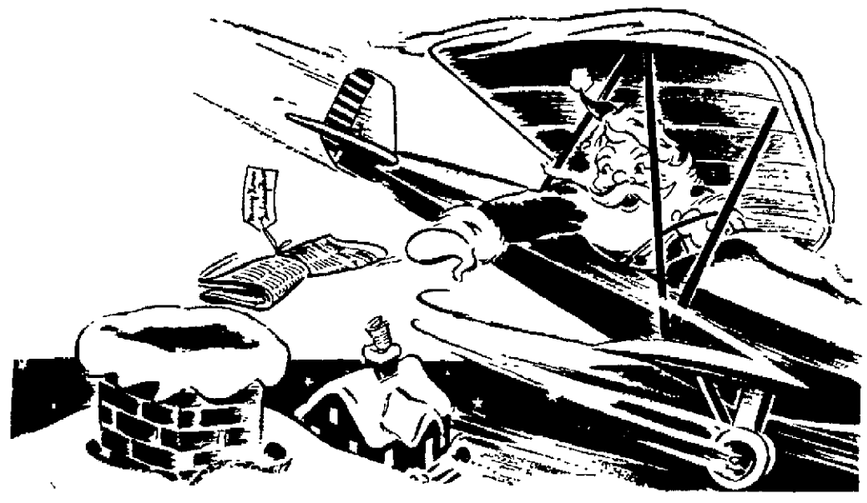

The Christmas Cheer Committee meets again Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the city hall.

POWER AND WORK

The United States alone is said to be producing today one-half of all the energy obtained from coal, oil, natural gas and waterpower. That is, half the energy got by the application of intelligence and human hands to natural resources. The rest of the world, with about 1,900,000,000 people to our 130,000,000, naturally produces more energy than we do from direct man-power; but so vast is our production of mechanical energy that we Americans are doing nearly half of the whole world's work.

"The United States," observes a science writer, "is the world's largest owner, producer and consumer of minerals. It is the only country in the world possessing adequate quantities of nearly all of the principal industrial minerals. It leads the world in the production of coal, oil, natural gas, iron, copper, lead, zinc, aluminum, phosphates, gypsum and sulphur. Equalling our mineral resources are our vast agricultural lands, timber, fisheries and waterpower. And matching these in greatness is the American spirit of democracy, the only spirit under which scientific progress can be made."

And yet we have about 12,000,000 people unemployed, and don't seem able to find work for them. We cannot be successful as a nation until they have jobs.

MISJUDGMENT OF GERMANS

Hans Borchers, German Consul General in New York, protested the other day against "the daily presentation of the German character to the world as a mixture of crudeness and arrogance."

There doubtless are some critics of modern Germany who make no distinctions or exceptions in their condemnation of its present religious and racial persecution. Most criticism, however, in newspapers and in private conversation, applies the terms crude and arrogant to the cruel acts themselves and to their perpetrators and supporters. It assumes that there must be millions of Germans, silenced by fear, who look with horror and shame upon the scenes and edicts which have shocked the outside world.

The German Consul said further: "Is not the best witness of German character and life the hundreds of thousands, even millions of men of the best German origin now part of the United States?"

Certainly so—especially the many representatives of those millions who have already spoken out in strong language against the crudeness, arrogance and cruelty of the group now ruling Germany. His "best" German-Americans, including leaders of the German-American press, are on the side of all other critics. The Nazis, in this country, at least, should hear and ponder these protests even though they will not listen to non-German critics.

RABBITS

The beginning of another rabbit-hunting season brings fears along with sport. New cases appear of the dreaded tularemia or "rabbit fever," which can be caught by those who handle the rabbits and is sometimes fatal.

The origin of this strange disease is not well understood, but some authorities believe it is caught by the rabbits from some kind of plant. People seem to catch it mainly from their fur. It seldom appears in tame rabbits. Rabbit-breeders naturally turn this fact to their own advantage, pointing out that people who like rabbit meat, but fear tularemia, are safe in buying tame rabbits.

Incidentally it is amazing how the breeding of tame varieties has grown in late years, and what a following it has. There are tens of thousands of rabbit-fanciers around the country, raising and selling the various domestic breeds, and breeding new strains. There are rabbit magazines, and also rabbit shows that attain almost the distinction and popularity of dog shows.

CHINA'S TEMPORARY ORPHANS

The Wartime Child Welfare Association, of which Mme. Chiang Kai Shek is chairman, is one of a number of groups working in China to take care of temporary war orphans. Parents, themselves homeless or in the zone of fighting, turn over their children to the care of these groups.

The children are taken to safe places far in the interior of China. They are not only fed, clothed and protected from bombs, but they are taught to read and write and to practice various handcrafts such as spinning, weaving, bamboo work, knitting, and gardening. Many are mastering trades.

Some of the youngsters live in camps. Others are in private homes. It costs about eighty-five cents a month to provide for a child under these arrangements, and many well-to-do Chinese now support 20 to 100 of them. Some foreigners living in China also contribute to the work. The idea is to return the children to their parents whenever it is safe and possible to do so. Careful records are kept with this purpose in view.

It is an interesting fact that thousands of children are now receiving better food, better care, better education than they could have with their parents, because these are largely the children of China's very poor. With health and training, they should become a rich asset to their country.

PATENTS

The Senate monopoly committee has been considering patents lately, and raising the question whether the American patent policy is so wise as we have been used to thinking.

A patent is by its very nature a monopoly, a special privilege authorized by the government. Our patent system has been based on the idea that this privilege, by protecting inventors and enabling them to profit by their devices, encourages invention and in the long run is good for us all.

Some now insist that patents, when granted at all, should protect the inventors or the purchasers of inventions for a much shorter time than has been customary. They base this demand on the charge that too many patents are unused, or are monopolized by business corporations that restrict their use and deprive society of the full benefit of them. It is even charged that useful inventions are often bought up for the sole purpose of suppressing them and preventing wholesome competition.

It is a big and complex question, about which we may all learn more as the inquiry proceeds.

This is a conservative country. You wouldn't believe how many men still shave themselves with their grandfathers' hollow-ground razors.

KEEPING A FOOD DIARY

Now that it is known that, in many cases, asthma is due to sensitiveness to various substances—pollen of plants, fur, feathers, house and other dusts—a test for these substances is made by scratching the skin and rubbing some of the suspected substance into the scratch. What are called patch tests are made by putting some of the substance on the skin and covering it completely with a small square of adhesive tape. A number of scratch and patch tests with various substances can be made at one time. If, after application of the substances to the skin, the red inflamed spot is of a certain size, this food or other substance is considered to be the cause of the attacks.

Many who have frequent attacks of urticaria (hives) are able to trace the attack to a certain food eaten and many attacks of asthma can likewise be traced to certain goods if a careful watch is kept. Such everyday excellent foods as wheat and eggs may cause attacks of hives and asthma.

When the scratch test fails to show just which food is causing the asthmatic attacks, what is called the "elimination" diet is used. A diet of 'innocent' foods, foods not likely to cause attacks, is used and foods suspected of causing attacks may be added, one at a time. I have mentioned before the list of foods likely and not likely to cause attacks, as arranged by Dr. Walter Alvarez of the Mayo Clinic.

A very satisfactory method of finding which food or foods are causing the asthmatic attacks is by keeping a food diary. A simple system of keeping the food diary is suggested by Dr. K. P. Turrentine in Southern Medicine and Surgery.

"The food diary consists of a cross-ruled sheet of paper, the foods being written on the left margin and the dates on the top margin. Thus the patient need only make an X in front of each food under the line for the day on which it was eaten. If an attack of hives (or asthma) occurs on a certain day, that day should be checked and attention drawn to the foods marked for the twenty-four hours before attack occurred."

Allergy

Some persons are sensitive to various foods and other substances and will suffer from asthmatic attacks, hay fever, eczema, skin rashes, hives, intestinal and other disturbances when they eat or come in contact with these substances. Send today for Dr. Barton's interesting booklet entitled 'Allergy' or Being Sensitive to Various Foods and Other Substances. Enclose ten cents to cover cost of service and handling and send your request to The Bell Library, 247 West 43rd street, New York, N. Y., mentioning the name of the Kingston Daily Freeman.

Chapter 32

Just A Chance

"LOOK, Adam. I've been thinking about that notebook and the two attacks on Barney and the possibility that the shot that killed Anne might have been intended for him. And the repeated theme of—of the family skeleton in what he wrote about everyone. And I can see only one explanation that fits it all—and that's blackmail."

In silence Adam digested that unpalatable word. Then he shook his head.

"A blackmailer is a peculiarly nasty vermin. I won't believe it of a brother officer. I have my own curiosity about people, but I don't trade on it. I prefer to think Barney is that way."

"Then why the notebook?" I asked. "And what was he doing with it tonight?"

"What do Elizabeth and Annie know about Anne that they aren't telling?" he countered. "And what was that poor devil of a sentry trying to tell me? And what about those stones? . . ."

His voice trailed off and he stared straight through me, his eyes the unearthly, dazzling blue of the sparks thrown off by an acetylene torch.

"What is it?" I cried, my pulses beginning to pound.

He shook his head as if I were a buzzing fly.

"I've got to think," he muttered.

I let him think. Presently he seized the brown notebook, leafed through it, found something and grew more excited as he read. He leaped to his feet and raced around the small room while I watched him in painful suspense.

"But how can I prove it?" he demanded of me suddenly; but when I snatched at the chance to ply him with questions his only answer was a vacant stare.

"I'm only trying to help you," I cried at last in exasperation.

"Eh? Oh, yes, yes! Thank you very much. . . ."

He was the soul of courtesy, but he was gone from me. I retired into a sulky silence and tried to figure it out for myself.

I was getting exactly nowhere when the telephone rang. It startled Adam out of his somnambulism, but he was so long coming back to reality that it rang a second time before he remembered to answer it.

"Yes. . . . Yes. . . ." A long pause. "Are you sure that's all she said? All right, Doc, I'll be right over."

He listened a moment longer, cradled the instrument carefully.

"Is there an extension telephone in this house?"

I nodded.

"Where?"

"Upstairs hall. Not far from my room. Why?"

"Someone was listening in on that conversation. I heard the click. . . ."

'Touch And Go'

HE RELEASED the telephone again, quietly, and asked for the Officers' Club.

"Charlie? Adam speaking. Is Barney asleep? . . . You're sure he's all right then? . . . Very well, I want you two to meet me at the hospital in ten minutes. . . . I don't care whose car you take, but your orders are the same as before—you're to stay with Barney every minute. I don't want any more of these mysterious attacks. I'm holding you personally responsible for him. . . . Ten minutes then."

He put the instrument back, shoved it away from him.

"What has happened?"

"Anne is conscious, asking for Barney. Want to come along?"

"Yes! You think she may tell him something?"

Adam shrugged. "She may be delirious—she may lapse and never come out of it. It's touch and go. Doc says they have her in an oxygen tent."

He motioned me to silence, and together we tiptoed out into the hall.

The upper landing was lighted and Elizabeth was standing there, fully dressed, gazing down at us.

"It's Anne!" she said accusingly. "Why wasn't I told?"

Adam said, "Sorry, explain later."

"Annie and I are coming," she stated and was answered by a wail from the shadows.

"Me too!" said Lou Orpington's voice. "Wait for me!"

Adam hurried me out of the house.

Doc Moore, his hair mussed and new lines in his face, stood in the door of the waiting room.

"She's got a wonderful constitution," he said. "Wonderful. There's a chance—just a chance. . . ."

"Her mother and father here?"

"Yes, been here for hours, waiting. When she finally opened her eyes I called them. I think she recognized them, but she kept whispering, 'Barney.' There may be something she doesn't want them to know. The old lady went to pieces—had to give her a sedative, put her in one of the other beds."

"Anne still conscious?"

"Fitfully. She dozes, wakes, asks for Barney."

He turned, looked down the hall. "Here they come. I'll see if she's awake."

He was gone, with light, noiseless steps.

Barney and Charlie came in, ignoring me, fastening their gaze on Adam. They were hollow eyed, unshaven, but they had taken time to don day uniforms. They were in olive-drab slacks, fresh khaki shirts, and they carried their campaign hats.

"What's happened?" asked Barney evenly. Except for an unhealthy pallor he seemed to have recovered from his mysterious attack.

"Anne is alive—she's been asking for you," Adam said gently.

Dazed Eyes

I HEARD the faint whistle of Charlie's indrawn breath. I saw Barney's sudden rigidity, the quiver of emotion on his face that for a moment broke up his iron control.

"Where is she?" he asked in a high, unnatural voice. He turned, was on his way.

"Just a minute—Doc will let you know. She may be asleep. You'd better wait here."

Barney stumbled back into the room.

"Why wasn't I told of this before?" His dazed eyes were fixed on Adam.

"The chance was too slim. I thought you'd rather not be kept in suspense."

Charlie broke in eagerly. "Then—then she's going to get well?"

He was trembling uncontrollably, and he did not seem to know that I was there.

"It's still in the lap of the gods," said Adam.

Suddenly they were all there—Annie with her hair in wisps under the belligerent black affair, Lou Orpington with excited eyes darting from face to face, Elizabeth calm, contained, radiating strength.

She went at once to Barney, put her hand on his arm, murmured that she was glad; but I thought he scarcely heard her.

And then my eyes leaped to the doorway again and I wondered if the strain had been too much for me. Was I imagining things, or did I really see Mrs. Flower?

She came at once to me and I saw that her husband was behind her.

"It's Anne, isn't it?" she asked brightly, cheerfully, in that nerve-shattered room. "I just told Flower that's what it was. You see, there weren't any lights at the Carewes', and the doctor being gone all evening and all, and cars coming and going all the time—you can see the hospital from our quarters. So I just told Flower, 'Anne's alive,' and we came to see if I was right—and to see if we can do anything, of course."

She smiled confidingly. "You see, Gilly woke up when we came in, and it's so near morning of course he wouldn't be able to sleep any more, so Flower and I didn't bother to go to bed. For while Gilly's always very good with Nurse, he's always very full of spirits in the morning, and even if one could, I don't believe in suppressing a child."

I said, "Oh!" rather inadequately. Then, to my surprise, Adam took her off my hands.

He drew her into a corner, spoke a few words unobtrusively and drifted away. I was just beginning to feel that he had withdrawn his confidence from me when he paused beside me.

"Keep your eye on Annie," he said in a voice that was little more than a breath.

I must have shown that I was startled, for before I could frame a question he answered it.

"Nothing is going to happen if I can prevent it, but I can't take any chances. If—if Anne knows anything there may be an attempt to silence her—the murderer may show a hand. . . ."

The Reindeer Express

SANTA was wearing a belt around his coat that had jingling bells on it, and there were two little bells attached to the top of his long stocking cap.

They reached the reindeer in a short time, although it was all Willy Nilly could do to keep up with Santa Claus.

"I think there is enough snow now for you to drive the sleigh right back to your house," said Santa, and Willy Nilly nodded, for he was too much out of breath to speak.

The reindeer were waiting. There were sixteen of them, and now Santa got in one sleigh with eight reindeer harnessed in front, and Willy Nilly got in the other.

The Puddle Muddlers heard them coming and dashed out to meet them.

"Now," said Santa Claus, "I'll leave one sleigh here and the reindeer can make themselves at home. They like to be out-of-doors, you know."

"But if they want shelter they can go to my shed," Willy Nilly offered. "You needn't mind leaving the sleigh anywhere. We don't have much traffic around Puddle Muddle."

"Yes, you could leave it right out in the middle of one of our bumpy, snowy roads and it wouldn't be in the way," added Top Notch.

Now Santa Claus got in a plane and flew off and Willy Nilly asked the Puddle Muddlers to decide which one of them would take the first ride.

"It's so hard to make up my lambish mind," bleated Sweet Face. "I'd like to be the first, and then again I'd like to have the treat to look forward to as the saying is."

"That's the way I feel about it," quacked Mrs. Quacko.

"We'll draw for it," said Willy Nilly. "The one with the shortest piece of paper goes first," he said.

Miss Hazel Van De Bogart and John Cleveland, of Kingston, spent Sunday with her father, Luther A. Van De Bogart.

Mrs. Alida Reynolds called on Miss Rachel Shultis one day this week.

Help for Convalescents

Introducing little surprises on the food tray often will improve the appetite of a convalescent child. Some note from a friend, a new toy, or food served in an unusual guise may do the trick. Telling the child an interesting story may absorb his attention so much that he eats up everything without realizing it.

Washington Daybook

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—It is almost fun these days to cover a Republican National Committee meeting—fun for the first time in six years.

It is no fun to attend funerals, and Republican meetings for six years have been funerals, no less. Forlorn faces told forlorn stories and made forlorn predictions of party victory, when all the while everybody knew there wasn't a ray of honest optimism. Now the party faces, once so long, are positively glowing.

There are other changes, too.

Some of the party leaders have abandoned their effort to make the party sound liberal—that is, too liberal.

The last election looked to the Republicans like at least a partial repudiation of liberalism as defined by President Roosevelt. The net result is that some Republicans may prefer now to be known as conservative rather than liberal. Even John Hamilton, national chairman, hesitates now to call a man a liberal, willy nilly.

In 1936 everybody who had anything to do with the party was glibly described by Hamilton and other party leaders as a great liberal statesman. But somebody at the recent meeting asked Hamilton whether Harvey Jewett, Jr., of South Dakota, newly elected to the executive committee, was a liberal or a conservative. Hamilton backed out.

"I never try to name the tag on any man," he said.

* * *

Youngsters Provide Excitement

NATURALLY the most exciting element in the governing body of Republicanism is the influx of youngish members who as yet are not overawed by the elder members with party connections predating the Hoover era. But so perverse is our own disposition that we checked the list to learn just how many of the old horses were still helping to pull the plow.

It develops that about a third of the executive committee and a third of the 90-odd members on the larger membership of the national committee can be pointed out as representing the "solid conservative" elements which ballasted the party for many a year. In actual membership there are far more gray-heads than juniors but age is no exact measure of liberal tendencies.

* * *

Simpson A Standout

NEVERTHELESS the interest within the committee as well as without hinges about the fledgling members, particularly about Kenneth Simpson of New York. Red-haired and redder moustached, he was the big show at the national committee session. When the meeting broke up, reporters rushed first to him for a 10-minute questioning while national chairman Hamilton, the party spokesman, was left so conspicuously alone that a half dozen observers were moved to comment on it. Hamilton's turn came later, of course.

Simpson, at 43, is the juniorest of juniors in length of service on the committee but his position bulks larger than perhaps any other member. First off, he represents the largest state, as measured in presidential votes, and second, he was the campaign manager for Tom Dewey in the New York governorship race. Dewey was beaten but by such a narrow margin that he still stacks up as a major hope of the Republican party in 1940.

And if Dewey is chosen, nothing could keep Simpson out of the national chairmanship.

Man About Manhattan

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—Recently this department argued that the horses were a safer gamble than investing one's money on Broadway, and developments since then would seem to bear this out. It was our guess that of all the nightclubs in Manhattan only three made real money.

These three are in the 52nd-53rd street sector and seem to be in a position, if it became necessary, to withstand almost any sort of financial drought.

There may be others, of course, I haven't seen any ledgers. But the point I wish to make is that already this week two well-known clubs, clubs which enjoyed sensational success for a brief season, have had to close their doors since last Saturday night. Another sad spectacle was that over-night budding which in 48 hours left an owner with nothing but grief for his pains. This club opened Friday night and on Monday the "for sale" sign was posted.

* * *

BROADWAY has always been a dangerous thoroughfare, whether one considered it as a career or an investment. It is a street of "take a chance" and the odds against any gamble are overwhelming. It is cheap and tawdry, frowsy and lousy, and always overlaid with bunk. The best bet is to begin, if you must begin, with the fatalistic philosophy that you can't win anyway—and then, if by some weird chance you do come out on top, you are in a position to make the most of your good fortune. At least you won't be disillusioned. It is good to remember also that the less you know the more frequently you get a break, for in this stretch the dark horse noses his way home first just as often as the tried and practiced favorite.

* * *

TAKE the case of "Dodsworth." It was one of the genuinely successful ventures that make "Napoleons" of Broadway managers and add lustre to an author's name. Yet five managers turned it down because they thought it didn't have a chance to succeed.

"Abie's Irish Rose" ran five years after being editorially guillotined by the critics, but that was just one of those things where a bum play—and it was a bum play—enjoyed a benevolence which only the gods can explain.

Marjorie Rambeau is a talented actress but she read the manuscript of a certain W. Somerset Maugham play and turned it down because she thought it had not one chance in 30 to succeed on Broadway. It fell eventually into the lap of an actress named Jeanne Eagles, and you know the rest. That play was "Rain."

Trying to make an increase in the state gasoline tax popular strikes us as an impossible task.

Three strong silent men recently approached a soda fountain:

Soda Jerker—What's yours, Claude?

Claude—A chocolate milk shake.

Soda Jerker—And yours, Clarence?

Clarence—An ice cream soda

Soda Jerker—And how about you, Charlie?

Charlie—Make mine plain milk, please—I'm driving.

The ordinary man can't comprehend how a man who publicly announces he is broke manages to ride around town in a chauffeur-driven sixteen cylinder automobile.

The day was very cold. The Brushville doctor was covering the hood of his ancient and battered car with a rug, when an errand boy came up to him and said mockingly, "It's no use, mister. I've seen it."

Mechanic—Anything the matter with the car?

Motorist—Well, there's only one part of it that doesn't make a noise, and that's the horn.

The thing that makes the highways dangerous is traffic. Holidays and Sundays, therefore, are especially dangerous. It will be well to keep this in mind when making plans for the coming holidays.

Jerry—Dora is the limbest girl I've ever seen.

Perry—Why?

Jerry—She wanted to know how many quarters in a baseball game.

Perry—That's nothing; my girl wanted to know if a football coach has wheels.

Fruit Salesman—But how do you play truant from the correspondence school?

Butter Salesman—I send them an empty envelope.

Smiles. The Spirit of the Christmas season is felt everywhere in the land...Happiness seems to be contagious. We have a smile for everyone, and everyone seems to have a smile for us ...How wonderful it would be if this spirit manifested itself all the year.

Beggar—Won't you help a poor fellow, lady, what lost all his money in the Wall Street crash?

Lady (suspiciously)—But I saw you the other day, and you told me you lost all your money through the "war."

Beggar—That's right, lady. Ain't I just the uniuckiest guy in the whole world?

Snipped from the Wall Street Journal: "And in the old days a bad man would go around with niches in his gun handle, instead of his fenders."

Guard—Sir, the prisoners are rioting again.

Warden—What's the matter now?

Guard—The chef used to cook for a fraternity.

Mr. Dubb—Often when I look up at the stars in the firmament I cannot help thinking how small, how insignificant, how miserably low I am.

Mrs. Dubb—And is that the only time that thought occurs to you, Mr. Dubb?

We should not only do our best but also try to be our best.

Flue-Dried Tobacco Was Idea of Virginia Grower

The greatest stride ever made in the preparation of bright tobacco for market was the discovery of the system of curing or drying it with a flue, writes R. S. Barbour Jr. in the Richmond Times-Dispatch.

As nearly as can be determined, the discovery was made in 1869. William T. Ballou, planter, living about three miles from South Boston, Va., one of the leading tobacco markets of the world, was the first to cure bright tobacco with a flue. In 1869 canning of fruits was unknown and when fruit was to be saved it was necessary to dehydrate it; that is, drain it of all moisture. Ballou was known over a large area as an especially fine fruit dryer, doing it for his own use, to sell it, and largely as a hobby. The year 1869 was rainy and he had been unable to dry his pears, peaches, apples, plums and figs. It was while he was worrying over this situation that Upton Thomas Bowden, itinerant tinner, stopped by and asked for a night's lodging. On discovering that Bowden was a tinner, Ballou asked him if he could build a flue, one that he could use to dry his fruit, and then explained to him his idea. The system was forthwith given a trial and it worked beyond the anticipation of the two men.

Ballou then reasoned that the same system could be used for his tobacco. This was given a trial and in the words of Ballou on viewing the first flue-cured tobacco, "It is beautiful."

Iron and Bronze Razors

The Romans and Pompeiians used iron for razors. Other ancients used bronze. It was not until the art of tempering steel was discovered that shaving took a long step forward in comfort. Ancient Greece produced razors of good quality. There were barbers in Greece 400 B. C. and Rome's first barber came from Sicily about 300 B. C. The first Roman to shave every day was Scipio. The argument about to shave versus not to shave is also ancient, and it has come down to this day. Defenders of the beard said it was a heat insulator, and an air strainer for pathogenic organisms. The other side said beards were germ traps.

History of 'Silent Night' Song

The music of "Silent Night" was composed by Franz Gruber, an Austrian organist, and the words by Josef Mohr, an Austrian clergyman. It was sung for the first time in 1818 in the parish church of St. Nicholas at Oberdorf. Josef Mohr was ordained a priest in 1814. Four years later he went to Oberdorf and there met Franz Gruber, who acted as organist. Desiring some new music for Christmas service, the two collaborated and on Christmas eve, 1818, the song was written.

Dahomey in French West Africa

Dahomey is one of the colonies or provinces of French West Africa. It embraces the former native kingdom of Dahomey and some other territory, with a coastline of about 70 miles, between Togoland and Nigeria, on the Gulf of Guinea. The colony has an area of 41,302 square miles and a population of nearly 1,132,000, of which the Europeans number about 900. The town of Porto Novo is the capital and principal business center.

Deer Are Not Mutes

The deer is usually considered by the layman to be mute. Ranger naturalists of General Grant National park, California, say that frequently a yearling or fawn, when separated from its kind, will wander about forlornly, making a continuous moaning sound. The tones are so light as to be practically inaudible at a distance of 100 yards. Young fawns, old enough to travel about, when thus separated from the does will make a much louder sound than the yearlings.

Panama Shaped Like Caterpillar

Panama is shaped like a crawling caterpillar, with its head touching Costa Rica on the north, and its tail reaching southward to the forested mountains of Colombia, being equal in area to Maine. Panama City is on the Pacific side of the canal. The bay there is a fisherman's paradise. "Panama," in the native Indian tongue, means "abundant fish." The old city of Panama is the oldest town on the mainland of America.

War Letter of 1812 Discovered in Attic

BREWSTER, MASS.—A letter threatening to blow up the town's salt works during the War of 1812 has been found by Mrs. Franklin T. Cleverly in her attic.

The note demanded $4,000 and was signed by Capt. Richard Raggett of the British ship Spencer.

New Program Started

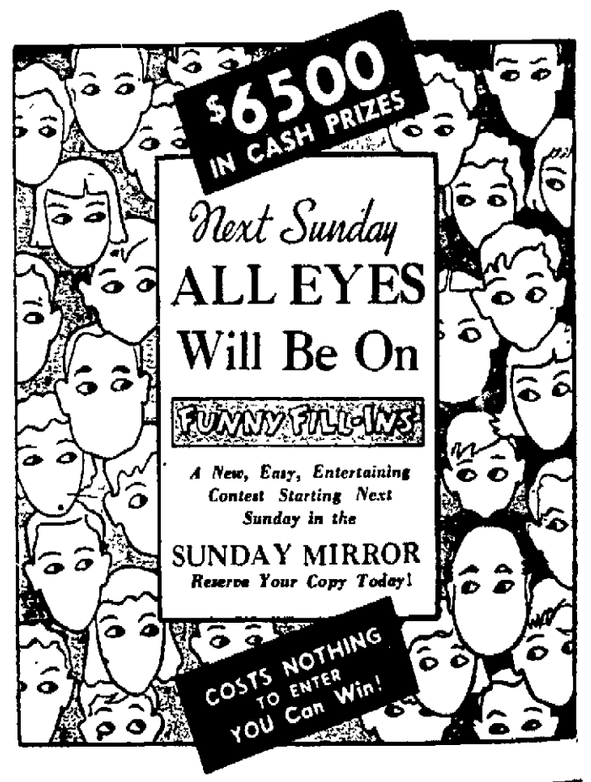

The first of a series of Friday night moving picture hobby programs was inaugurated at the Y. M. C. A. last evening with a good attendance. It is planned to have an interesting hour starting at 8 p. m. the second and fourth Friday each month. Through the courtesy of DeWitt Wells, who furnished his machine, the program was made possible.

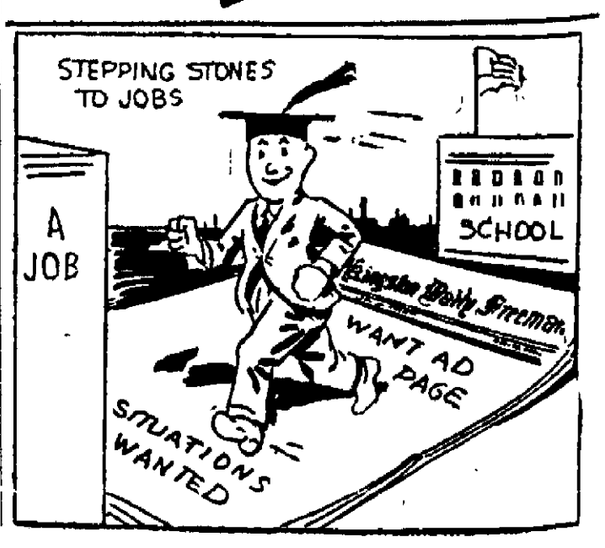

Engagement rings were made of iron in early Roman days, the gold ring for the occasion being introduced in the second century.

To Speak Here on Nazi Persecution

Dr. Franz Otto, former Austrian educator, will be the speaker at the meeting of the American League for Peace and Democracy at the Uptown Community Center on Tuesday evening.

Dr. Otto, who has been a refugee from Austria since he came to this country last August, will give an eye-witness account of Nazi persecution of Jews and non-Jews. Dr. Otto was closely connected with the former Austrian government under Chancellor Kurt Von Schussnig and has long been intimate with the political situation in that country.

Hofbrau Reopens

The Hofbrau on St. James street, which has been temporarily closed pending renovations and the change of management, reopened today, it was announced by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kresig, who again are taking over the business after an absence of 14 months.

New York State has 10,638 churches with a total membership of 6,739,146, according to a 1926 survey.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Today's definition of an actor: "One who is active."

The definer is Lloyd Bacon, whose record of action hits would qualify him for any amount of defining. His argument:

"There's a tendency to forget that motion pictures are pictures of people in action. The fans can assimilate only so many psychological studies, so many films of slow suspense and mood. They get tired of doing all the work when they sit down in a movie theater. They want to watch something happen, and happen fast. The faster things happen on the screen the more relaxed and pleased is the audience."

Bacon gestures toward James Cagney and Rosemary Lane, engaged in a short romantic sequence for "The Oklahoma Kid." Romance is there, he says, but it won't slow things down. Bacon wants everything to go at a steady gallop, slowing down maybe to a lope occasionally but never slower.

He's getting down to fundamentals there. So is the whole crop of outdoor action pictures, newest of them "Stagecoach," with John Ford at the helm. He's getting down to the very beginnings of the movies, whose very first actor—even before the movies got onto their galloping celluloid — was a horse. Muybridge's "Studies of a Horse in Motion." Remember that far back?

* * *

THAT talkative trio — W. C. Fields, Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy — are uniting forces to prove, via the screen, that "You Can't Cheat An Honest Man." Interesting thesis, and one of the year's most interesting titles.

But what I started to relate was Mister Bergen's terrific disappointment in Peggy. Mister Bergen thought Peggy would work as hard as Charlie, and deliver equally well. Peggy tried, too, but she simply didn't have it in her. Mister Bergen couldn't understand why, but he figured it this way finally, and amateur ventriloquists may profit by the tip:

"Peggy was too animated. Her tense, excited appearance didn't match the voice I had for her. The most important thing to consider is harmony between the voice you use and the features, costume and characterization of the dummy you work."

Poor Peggy! But wouldn't it be fine if human actors who tried and missed had a nice, roomy suitcase to retire to—instead of hanging on with that old eternal hope?

* * *

TODAY'S quotation, from Robert Taylor, discussing the superb naturalness of Spencer Tracy's acting: "... I'd like to be able to reach the point where nobody could accuse me of acting—if you know what I mean. I'd like to be as natural as Tracy."

CREEK LOCKS

Creek Locks, Dec. 10—T. Kelsch of Creek Locks made a trip to New York recently.

Fritz Kuebler of New York has bought the home of William Krom.

The supper and dance held Wednesday evening at St. Peter's Hall was largely attended.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Ackert, who have been called away to Rhinebeck because of sickness, are back to their home again.

Mrs. H. Melos made a trip to Kingston on Friday.

Suggests Loan

Oslo, Norway, Dec. 10 (AP)—Judge Michael Hansson, Norwegian jurist and president of the Nansen International Office for Refugees, accepted today the Nobel peace prize of $40,000 on behalf of the Nansen office and in a speech declared the refugee problem was "the biggest social question of our time." He added that 5,000,000 Jews were in danger of becoming homeless and suggested an international loan for helping all refugees, regardless of race.

Bar Association To Meet Monday

The Ulster County Bar Association will hold its next meeting at the Kingston Club Monday evening, December 12. A dinner will precede the meeting.

N. LeVan Haver, chairman of the program committee, has secured Supreme Court Justice Sydney F. Foster of Monticello as guest speaker for the occasion. Justice Foster is presiding over the December trial term of supreme court at Kingston.

At this meeting election of officers for the coming year will be held. It is expected that Andrew J. Cook, who served the association so ably for the past year as president, will be selected by acclamation.

If You're Handy in the Kitchen Cook Some Christmas Presents

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
(AP Feature Service Writer)

If you're a good cook you've got an answer to a lot of your Christmas gift problems right in your skillet. You can give packages of food you have made yourself.

It may mean extra work, but that kind of a present often is most acceptable. That's especially true if you have a reputation among your friends for making some one thing especially well—a tangy salad dressing, fruit cookies or, perhaps candied fruit peel. Those are some suggestions. A pudding put up in a glass

A home-cooked fruit pudding ready to be mailed as a gift in the heat-resistant glass casserole in which it was cooked.

FRUIT CAKE EN CASSEROLE

2 lbs. seedless raisins	1 cup sour milk
1 lb. seeded raisins	1½ cups currant jelly
¼ lb. candied orange peel	1 tablespoon vanilla extract
¼ lb. candied cherries	1½ teaspoons salt
½ lb. citron	2 teaspoons nutmeg
½ lb. dates	2 teaspoons cinnamon
½ lb. figs	1 teaspoon allspice
½ lb. blanched almonds	¼ teaspoon cloves
½ lb. flour	¾ teaspoon soda
½ lb. butter	1 teaspoon baking powder
½ lb. granulated sugar
6 eggs, well beaten

Chop fruits and nuts coarsely. Dredge with half a cup of flour. In another bowl, cream together butter and sugar until light. Add well-beaten eggs, sour milk, jelly and vanilla. Mix thoroughly. Sift together rest of flour, the salt, nutmeg, cinnamon, allspice, cloves, soda and baking powder. Add flour mixture through a sifter to the egg mixture. Beat until smooth. Stir in dredged fruits and nuts. Pour into well-greased heat-resistant glass casseroles. (Use three one quart casseroles or two one and one-half quart casseroles.) Put covers on dishes and bake in a 275 degrees F. oven for two and one-half hours. Remove from oven. Cool without removing covers. If desired, seal edges, where covers join dish, with paraffin.

This makes about five pounds of pudding.

or pottery container and ready to pop into the oven and heat is a fine gift. Or send it in a muffin tin or a ring mold.

For a Bachelor Girl

If you have a bachelor girl friend [illegible] the makings, or part of the makings, of a Christmas meal in case she wants to do some entertaining herself. (Of course, if you planned that, you should let her know in advance so she won't stock up.)

You can send over on Christmas morning a roasted chicken or half a baked ham, fruit cocktail or soup, some freshly cooked vegetables, cranberry jelly. And top it off with a big mince pie, ready for reheating.

And don't forget those jellies, jams and pickles you put up last summer especially with Christmas in mind. They just need to be wrapped in holiday fashion.

A Christmas surprise package makes a fine family gift. Get a large box and line it with waxed paper. Cover with cookies, tightly packed and spread with waxed paper. Add a layer of candied fruits, stuffed dates and fruit strings. Cover these with more waxed paper and on top place delicious homemade candies. Fill in the chinks with salted or glazed nutmeats and candied orange peel.

For a business girl a large sized box of Christmas goodies will help solve her problem for evening snacks when friends drop in. Select jars with tightly fitting lids to hold the confections to keep them fresh.

The full cooky jar as a present is hard to beat. Fill a fancy or plain jar with several varieties of homemade cookies, kinds that keep well. Tie a fancy paper over the top of the jar and add some pine cones or holiday greens.

And don't forget the bachelor friend who likes to cook. A box of assorted sandwich spreads, some salad dressing, a bottle of chutney, chill sauce and some spiced peaches will make a present for him. If your bachelor is not a housekeeper, send a large box of chocolate fudge, penoche, peanut brittle and stuffed dates.

To obtain this pattern send ten cents in coin to the Kingston Daily Freeman, Household Arts Dept., 259 W. 14th street, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

All Girls Need Business Training, Says Woman Railroad Executive

By AURELIUS KINSEY
AP Feature Service Writer

Chicago—Mrs. Edith Jarvis Alden used to play in the home offices of the Burlington Railroad at Burlington, Iowa, when she was a little girl. Today, at 54, she is secretary of the road, the first woman high executive the Burlington has had in its 88 years of existence.

"Big business offers women many opportunities," Mrs. Alden says, "and one of the best ways for a woman to attain success is to understand that she is participating in a man's world and should adapt herself to do things a man's way.

Striking Out Alone

"I believe every girl should have business training, regardless of her station in life. She may have her heart set upon marriage and family as a career but a little knowlege of business requirements and methods will help her understand better some of the husband's problems. And, too, she may have to strike out alone and support herself some day."

As far back as Mrs. Alden can remember someone in her family worked for the Burlington road. Her uncle, Walter J. Jarvis; her father, Harry E. Jarvis, and an older brother, Fred S. Jarvis, were secretaries to Burlington presidents, vice-presidents or division superintendents.

As a child she heard the Burlington's business, board meetings, mortgages and policies discussed time and again. So it seems natural to her that the Burlington should be the major part of her life now.

Mrs. Edith Jarvis Alden
She Likes To Grow Flowers

Started During War

Mrs. Alden started to work for the railroad during the World War. She helped handle Liberty Bond sales to its employes. She continued with the road and recently was elected to succeed Charles L. Sturgis, 78, as secretary, when he retired after 58 years of service.

Railroading offers a few opportunities to women, Mrs. Alden says, but she doesn't think that they are greater than those in any other business. Her work, for instance, is filled with details, legal interpretations and application that thrill her, but might bore the next woman.

She tried mixing housework and business, but found the days were too short for both. So she stuck to railroading.

The Aldens were separated by divorce in 1923. Mrs. Alden lives with her 26-year-old son, John Jarvis Alden. His interests lean toward radio, advertising, music and writing. The two enjoy a close companionship.

Mrs. Alden has a variety of hobbies, topped by her desire to grow flowers, get out into the open country, swim and travel. She chooses books relating the experiences of others in foreign lands, likes good, fast-moving mystery yarns and won't play cards because she would rather visit than worry about suits, bids or scores.

She is president of one and a member of another Chicago business and professional women's club and draws a line between these and purely social organizations. She prefers the business women's groups, she says, because there she finds hard-headed, hard-working members of her sex who are striving for recognition in a man's world.

Necklines

Fur Collar Days Call For Extra Care

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Feature Service Writer

Fur collars, upped hair styles and heavy costume jewelry make the old-fashioned problem of keeping your neck clean more than a joking matter this year. Unless you're especially careful about it your neck is likely to show smudges of tarnish where that new gilt necklace rubbed against your collar, or dingy areas where the collar of your fur coat rubbed your neck. Here are four pointers on keeping your neck clean:

WEAR a wide rubber headband to keep your hair in place and protect it from soap and water. The band will come handy next summer, too, to wear under your bathing cap.

USE plenty of soap and water and scrub all the way 'round your hairline. When you're sure it's clean, wipe your neck dry and apply foundation cream or liquid to your neck as well as to your face.

TAKE a large powder puff, load it generously and dust the back of your neck. When the powder has had a chance to settle, rub it gently with your hands to remove the excess.

FORM the habit of wearing washable scarfs. Tuck one securely under your chin each time you put on your coat. Launder your scarfs as often as you do your collars and cuffs.

Black Jersey

Paris (AP)—Dining at Maxim's recently was Madame Robert Lazard, wife of the Paris banker. She wore an evening tailleur of Paquin's in black jersey with high shoulder jacket and large revers. The skirt of the dress was entirely covered with paillettes in red, green, blue and yellow, in rainbow effect. When the jacket was removed the same paillettes could be seen covering the top of the corsage.

Belts for Necks

Paris (AP)—Many of the new leather belts close with a leather thong tied in a small, neat bow. Vera Borea is using inch-wide leather belts that go twice around the waist and then tie. Double chick is achieved when the idea is repeated at the neck. A sports dress in wine red wool is "belted" twice-around at neck and waist, with wine red leather.

Piping Sandwich

A piquant ham filling is just the thing for toasted Graham bread sandwich. Mix chopped ham, minced parsley and green pepper, a dash of chopped onion, a little chili sauce and horseradish. Thin with salad dressing and spread on hot buttered toast. Return to oven for final heating and serve piping with some hot beverage.

Etiquette

Don't Go After Altitude Records With Your Christmas Centerpiece

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

It you want to be sure your Christmas dinner table is properly appointed, set it before you start out to enjoy the Christmas Eve festivities.

Get out your best tablecloth and place it so the center crease runs exactly down the middle of the table. If possible, arrange it so that it hangs ten or twelve inches over the edge of the table. Dinner-size napkins—twenty-seven inches square—should match it.

Don't let your enthusiasm for holiday centerpieces run away with you. The one you have prepared is so high people can't see over it when they're seated, either take out the tall sections or remove the centerpiece altogether. If you use candles, be sure the flames are well above eye level so they won't glare in your guests' eyes.

In all but the most formal homes it is a good idea to have the first course on the table when your guests sit down. Place suitable plates or cups—or both—for [illegible] juice [illegible] you have planned for the first course in the center of each cover.

Knives and spoons go to the right of each cover, forks to the left. The pieces of silver to be used first are on the outside, those to be used last nearest the plate. Knives are closest to the plate on the right—with spoons on the outside.

There are two exceptions to the silverware rule: Oyster forks are placed to the right of any knives or spoons at the right of the cover.

Butter Spreaders

The second exception is the butter spreader. Bread and butter plates are never placed on formal tables. When they are used on semi-formal tables, however, they go just above the forks, at the left of the cover. The butter spreader is placed slantwise across the right rim of each butter plate, the sharper edge turned away from the center of the table.

It's a good idea to bring dessert forks and spoons and coffee spoons to the table when you serve dessert and coffee. If you have coffee [illegible] the [illegible] large cups—and teaspoons. But if you wait until the end of the meal you may serve small (demi-tasse cups with coffee spoons to go with them.

Napkins go to the left of the cover. Coffee cups are placed at the right. Salad plates go to the left of bread and butter plates—above the forks. Glasses should be placed above the knives on the right.

In The Soup

New soup garnish: Spread inch-thick slices of white bread (without the crusts) with equal parts of butter and yellow cream cheese to which has been added a little minced onion and parsley. Put the bread on a baking sheet and cut into half-inch squares. Toast until well browned, stirring with a fork several times to allow even browning. Add a dash of salt and pass in a bowl.

Justifiable Deception

If your family is against leftovers try mixing them with other foods. Or never serve any warmed over food the day following its first appearance. Wait at least a day; the chances are the family will forget it is a leftover.

Helps for Housewives

Bread and cooky jars need careful clearing, much airing and thorough drying before filled. The keeping qualities and flavors of the bread or cookies depend largely on the care you give the container. With many holiday cakes and cookies in the making be sure to check on the places used for their storage.

Several days before Christmas save the orange skins. Remove all the pulp with a spoon, wash the skins shells and notch the edges with scissors. Wrap them in waxed paper and store them in a cool place. They make excellent holders for fruit cocktails, salad or cranberry sauce or a frozen dessert.

To carry out the holiday motif for your Christmas dinner shape your cranberry jelly in a star-shaped mold. Another good way to serve your cranberry sauce is to place it in halves of spiced apricots and pass it on a tray garnished with greenery.

Add a dash of cinnamon and a little brown sugar to the whipped-cream pie. Another good topping is made with half a cup of white cream cheese to two cups of whipped cream.

Anti-Scorching Hint

Fruit cakes require long, slow cooking. To help prevent scorching, line the pans one inch from the top, with two thicknesses of heavy waxed paper or brown paper, well buttered. Do not remove the paper until time to serve the cake as it helps keep it moist when stored.

Storing Fruit Cake

As soon as fruit cakes are removed from oven let them cool on a rack. Wrap them in several thicknesses of heavy waxed paper, held in place with rubber bands. Store them in a covered earthenware jar in a cool place. Add an orange to the jar for additional flavor and a little moisture.

Ski Suits Are Going All-America In Design This Winter

By ADELAIDE KERR
(AP) Fashion Editor

New winter ski suits have a professional air.

They are cut to do a smooth Christiana and finish right side up. They are all-American, too—pruned of Tyrolean or Scandinavian accents—simply and completely tailored and occasionally trimmed with fur.

Most of them are made of wool garbardine, twill, covert cloth or snow cloth (which has a blanket-like texture), closely woven to put up a stiff front to the wind and processed to repel moisture. Navy blue, brown and green are the colors seen most often.

Among novel trousers is the instructor model, cut like a spat top at the bottom, tucked inside the boot and held firm by a strap that goes under the foot. The majority, however, are of regulation cut, though some are slightly widened at the knee-line, so that they may be pulled up and worn as plus fours if desired.

Most of the jackets are fairly short—fitted, belted or cut like a lumberjack. The parka, with peaked hood attached to the jacket, still is seen, too. Many of the jackets have buckled side tabs or elastic side shirrings to insure a snug fit.

For heads there are visored caps, peaked hoods and gay knitted bonnets which tie under the chin. For hands there are mittens—sometimes of wool, sometimes of waterproofed poplin to wear over wool gloves. A little fashion froth appears in "Yes and No" mittens of contrasting color embroidered with "yes" and "no" on the back.

Skating clothes have zip. Skirts of plain or plaid wool are cut to the knee or an inch above, are circular or umbrella-tucked and often lined or faced with contrasting material. Teamed with white or bright slip-on sweaters, bonnets and mittens, they cut a dash on the ice.

SHE's ready for the first winter ski slides in a suit of dark green snow cloth which has a fleecy blanket-like texture. The jacket is trimmed with brown mouton (processed lambskin). "Yes-and-No" mittens of contrasting hue add zip.

Joan Bennett, of the films, tops her dark skating skirt with angora accessories, white as snowflakes and soft as down. She pulls over her curls and fluffy hood, which buttons under the chin, carries a muff and wears an angora sweater and jacket.

Glenford, December 10, A house warming was given Mr. and Mrs. Robert Buley, Wednesday, at their new home. During the evening pinochle, bridge and other games were played after which a delicious buffet supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Buley were the recipients of many gifts. Among those present were, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. O'Brien and son, LeRoy, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gray and son, Billy, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gray and daughter, Muriel, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stoutenburg, Allen Stoutenburg, Alton and Bessie Boyce, Elizabeth Gray, Milton Burland, Allen Gray, Marion De Marzs, Mrs. Chester Shultis, Harry, Harvey, Elizabeth and Chester Shultis, Jr., of Glenford, Donald DuBois, of Ashokan, Mrs. Fred Hammond and sons, Luke, Everett and Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Buley of West Hurley and Ione Rittie and Julia Prigve of Kingston.

Local Girl Scouts Plan For Director

Kingston members of the Girl Scouts met recently at the home of Mrs. A. DuBois Rose on Fair street to discuss plans for the coming year. Due to the growing demand for new troops, and due to the number of troops that are being organized throughout the county, it was thought advisable by the committee to have a paid director from the national headquarters visit the county in the spring for a short time to aid the troop leaders who give their services to the Girl Scout work.

There has not been a paid director in Kingston for a great many years and the committee believes that in securing one with the newest ideas in the field will be a great help to the new troops that are starting.

Each community, with the exception of Kingston, has raised its quota of the fund to pay the director from national headquarters, and the scouts of the city will sponsor a drive in February to raise the small amount proportioned.

Host at Supper Party

Donald Dumm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Dumm of Mountain View avenue will be host at a supper party this evening in honor of his 14th birthday. Following supper the guests will attend the dancing class at the Y. W. C. A. Guests at the supper party will be Elaine Rich, Doris Bouton, Edna McHugh, David Lane and Ralph Clapp.

Sorosis Meeting Changed

Sorosis will have an evening meeting next week instead of its usual Monday afternoon meeting. Mrs. William MacGregor Mills will be hostess at 7:45 at her home on Franklin street. The program will be "An Opera at the Metropolitan," in charge of Mrs. A Noble Graham.

Philathea Class Party

The Philathea Class of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will hold its annual Christmas party following the business meeting Monday evening. The meeting will be held at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George Compton, 448 Hasbrouck avenue. Each member is asked to bring a 10-cent gift.

Lutheran Church Christmas Pageant

The annual Christmas pageant of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will be presented on Sunday evening, December 18, at 7:30 and 8:40 o'clock. In view of the crowds which attended last year's pageant, two presentations are being planned for. With a musical background, consisting of the familiar carols of the season, 18 angels will drill in the aisles and on the platform around the Nativity group. Each angel will carry a lighted candle and will stand on various levels to form an effective tableau. The cast of characters consists of:

Mary, Caroline Port; Joseph, Edward Luedtke; Kings, Harold Canfield, Robert Messinger, William Grothkopf.

Kings attendants, Ronald Martin, Donald Rion, Gustav Koch.

Shepherds, Ernest Ryan, Cecil Burger, George Heppner, Arthur Strahlendorf.

Angels, Minerva Schwartz, Sarah Richens, Gloria McLean, Justine Rowe, Margaret Greenwood, Virginia Luedtke, Florence Morton, Florence Rice, Faith McCullen, Hilda Rice, Jeanine Gue, Kathryn Matthews, Miriam Hotaling, Betty Rowland, Dorothy Schick, Doris Purvis, Lorna Wells, Marjorie Schoonmaker.

Little Angels, Phyllis Faye, Barbara Kelly.

The pageant is being directed by the Rev. Russell Gaenzle, assisted by Richard Bailey and Edward Luedtke. In charge of lighting are Richard Bailey and Montgomery Bailey; in charge of properties are Warren Hutton, Theodore Blankshan, Carl Berulson, George Messinger, Alva Bruce, and John Houghtaling; in charge of supervision and of costuming are Edith Mayer, Gertrude Egbertson, Mrs. James Rowe, Betty Morgan, Mrs. Anna Kirchner, Mrs. Alfred Messinger, Mrs. Adam Thiel, Ezelda Lang, Ella Zoller, Mrs. Robert Strahlendorf, Mrs. Gustav Koch, Mrs. Alva Bruce, Elsa Hiltebrant, Julia Walter, Mrs. Laura Snyder. The choir under the direction of Leonard Stine will sing the musical accompaniment; Frederick Richens will play the organ.

Choristers to Organize

The Kingston Choristers will hold its first meeting of the season Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. Both men and women interested in oratorio work are especially urged to come. Details of plans for the 1939 season will be discussed.

Miss Byrne Honored at Supper

Miss Marion Byrne was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower and bridge last evening given by Mrs. Harry G. LaMothe at her home on Schryver Court. Those attending were Mrs. William Raible, Mrs. Arthur Byrne, Mrs. Stanley Petro, Mrs. James Byrne, Jr., and the Misses Lilyan McGrane, Mary McCutcheon Izzel Byrne, Orsono and Evelyn Douglas.

Beauty Is Jailed

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—Louise Chardonnet, pre-war Parisian beauty and darling of a Bourbon prince, was in jail today charged with taking part in a 3,000,000 franc (about $79,000) swindle. Mademoiselle Chardonnet, now 48 years old, once was maintained in lavish style at the apartment of Prince Antonio of Bourbon and Orleans, infante of Spain, who died in 1930. She and three others, also under arrest, were said by police to have swindled not only honest citizens but an ex-swindler with 10 convictions on his record.

Youths Lead Boys' Program

Freeman Photo

Boys' Day will be celebrated tomorrow at the Albany Avenue Baptist Sunday School. Robert Matthews, right, will preside over the meeting and Ralph Broughton, left, will have charge of the devotions. Both boys are active members of the Sunday School. Young Broughton has recently been awarded his fourth year pin for completing four years of perfect attendance without missing a Sunday. R. Gardner Burns, the new Boy Scout Executive who succeeds William A. Wright will speak on "A Boy's Hero."

SCHOOL OR PARTY STYLE

MARIAN MARTIN

PATTERN 9916

To dress up sweet juniors as they deserve—choose this new dirndl that can be short for day wear, or long for graduation or parties! It's such a debonair school frock in silk or cotton—with a neat collar, and brief sleeves set off by shirring or bands! Or it may be long-sleeved in wool, as protection from biting winds. (Either way it's useful for spring as well as winter!) Note how little sewing there is. Even the shirring is easy! And the diagrammed Sew Chart makes it all simple enough for daughter to make it herself—with a little supervision! How she'll adore the party version—its square, lace-edged neck and long, full skirt will give her the grace of an angel! It's nice to know too, that when inexpensive synthetics or cottons like organdie or voile are used, the cost will be "trifling."

Pattern 9916 may be ordered only in girls' sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14. Size 10, short dress, requires 2¼ yards 35 inch fabric.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS in coins for EACH MARIAN MARTIN pattern. Be sure to write plainly your SIZE, NAME, ADDRESS, and STYLE NUMBER.

Watch for the MARIAN MARTIN PATTERN FEATURE every day in this paper! You'll find the very newest styles you've been wanting—original designs created by Marian Martin especially for you! So simple that even a beginner can succeed with them, these patterns are noted for their size-accuracy and their perfect fit! Moreover, the [illegible] of instructions with every pattern takes the guesswork out of all dressmaking details.

Send your order to Kingston Daily Freeman, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St. New York, N. Y.

MODES of the MOMENT

By ADELAIDE KERR

Cut for cutting pinwheels, this skating skirt of wool is going places on ice this winter. Its gay plaid—red, white and green—makes a bright splash against winter's dull dress. Mademoiselle of the spinning skates wears it with a sweater, cap and mittens of stark white wool.

Presbyterian Church Service

Rondout Presbyterian Church on Wurts street—The Rev. Lockhart Amerman of New York city will have charge of the Communion service in the church on Sunday morning. Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock. Prayer service will be held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. William McCullough on West Chestnut street. The women of the church are reminded to bring their contributions for the missionary box to Mrs. I. W. Scott of West Chester street.

Menus Of The Day

By Mrs. Alexander George

Keeping Ahead Of Christmas

(Holiday Confections)

Bettina Pralines

1 cup dark brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
½ cup cream
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup pecans
½ teaspoon vanilla

Boil slowly, stirring constantly, the sugars and cream. When a soft ball forms when a portion of the candy is tested in cold water, remove it from the stove. Do not touch for ten minutes. Beat until creamy. Add rest of ingredients and drop small portions from the tip of a spoon onto waxed paper. Flatten until each patty is about two and one-half inches wide. Cool until stiff. Wrap in waxed paper.

Glazed Nuts And Fruits

1½ cups granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup boiling water
½ cup nuts
½ cup candied fruit strips

Boil slowly and without stirring the sugar, cream of tartar and water. When the syrup becomes a light brown (caramel) shade, add rest of ingredients and immediately pour into a buttered pan. Flatten with broad side of a knife. Mark into squares with knife when slightly firm. When cool enough to handle break apart and flatten out on waxed paper. Allow to cool.

Walnut Loaf

2 cups granulated sugar
2 squares chocolate
1½ cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
½ cup walnuts
½ cup diced marshmallows
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt

Boil gently, stirring frequently, the sugar, chocolate, milk and butter. When a soft ball forms when a small portion of the hot candy is poured into cold water, remove candy from stove at once. Let stand for 20 minutes or until the top can be easily pressed in with the fingers. (Not hot to the touch.) Beat until creamy. Add rest of ingredients and pour into a buttered pan or onto waxed paper. Shape with the hands into a loaf two inches thick. Wrap in waxed paper. Cut off thin slices when ready to serve or pack in boxes.

Make "Nerves" a Source Of Charm, Vitality

Use Energies Constructively

[illegible] John get on each other's nerves, blow up in public! No wonder they can't keep friends.

Yet they'd be charming—happy together—if they'd use their nervous energies constructively.

Instead, Mary frets over every trifle—John overbids his hand, the laundry's late. The least thing upsets her emotionally.

What Mary needs is an absorbing interest in her life. If she'd take over the leadership of the girls' club in her neighborhood she'd soon forget petty annoyances—become cheerful, vital, a pleasant companion.

"Speed-up" is John's middle name. It's rush to work, rush through lunch—no wonder he fumes, fusses, goes off the deep end at the least provocation.

Learn to let down a little, John. Get enough sleep. Take time to enjoy your meals.

You'll do a better job, be a better "pal" if you and Mary play a game of golf or go for a hike now and then.

Don't let nerves spoil your happiness. In our 32-page booklet a famous physician tells ways to control nerves to achieve serenity, vitality, how to diet and exercise to gain radiant health.

Send 10 cents in coin for your copy of OVERCOMING "NERVES" AND EVERY-DAY HEALTH PROBLEMS to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Home Service, 635 Sixth avenue, New York, N. Y. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of booklet.

Parent-Teacher Association

The regular monthly meeting of the P. T. A. of No. 8 school will be held Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, December 13. The speaker will be Joseph Block who will speak upon "The Relationship Between Public School and High School." Miss Wheeler and Miss Nash's room will entertain. Refreshments will be served. Members and their friends are urged to be present.

Local Jewish Youth Group To Hold Meeting Sunday

A regular meeting of the Jewish Youth Alliance will be held Sunday evening, November 11, promptly at 8:30 o'clock, J. Z. Farkas, presiding.

Mrs. Beth Katz, as guest speaker, will talk on the topic "Jews Without Money." Mrs. Katz will speak of experiences in a Jewish Welfare Agency.

The dramatic committee, under the direction of Mike Levine and Sidney Speigel, have prepared a revue for presentation at the meeting.

A social hour will follow the business of the group, and refreshments will be served.

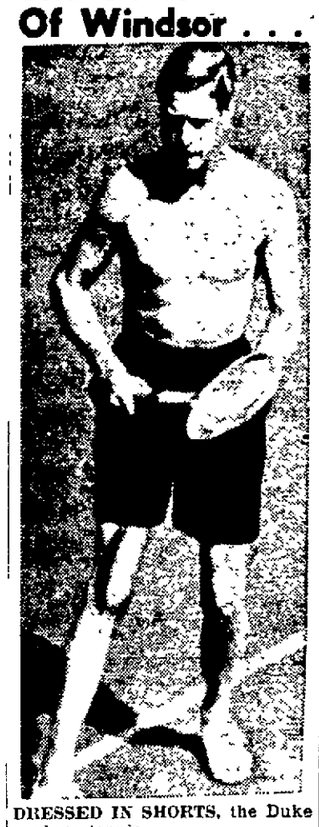

Two Years After Abdication

It's Fun Being Duke—And It's Fun Being King

By The AP Feature Service

WHEN Edward VIII abdicated two years ago December 10, folks said he'd lead a gay, easy life while his brother would put in a lot of hard, solid work being king.. Well, let's take a look at the pictorial record of the last two years.

The Duke Of Windsor . . .

DRESSED IN SHORTS, the Duke plays tennis.

GOES TO A PARTY. Edward attends more parties now than George—but he always did.

INSPECTS a German low-cost housing project. This suggests that Edward has his dull moments, too. He got out of a lot of inspecting by not coming to the U. S

RELAXES IN THE SUN along the Riviera—and pets a couple of his frisky terriers.

The King Of England . . .

DRESSED IN SHORTS, the King returns from a rowing trip.

GOES TO BOXING MATCHES. It is apparent that a king's life isn't all hard work.

INSPECTS suiting material at the British Industries Fair. Pretty dull business, this sort of thing, and George has had to do much more of it than his brother Edward.

ATTENDS THE RACES at Ascot. Sunshine . . . crowds . . . smart styles . . . good sport.

Shark Fishing New Industry on Coast

High Vitamin A Content Good for Poultry.

SAN FRANCISCO.—Discovery of the high vitamin A content of shark liver oil, particularly valuable to poultry, has resulted in the development of shark fishing as a major industry of California.

Shark fishing has its greatest activity in San Francisco bay and nearby waters of the Pacific ocean.

More than 35 fishing boats based here operate out of this harbor daily and fish with "long lines" for the gray predatory fish that raise havoc with the striped bass and other game fish in California salt waters.

Fishermen receive from $20 to $40 a ton for sharks, depending upon the species caught. The small dog shark is the least valuable, while the larger deep-sea variety, whose fins are used for soup, brings the highest price.

State fish and game officials said more than 100 tons of sharks, worth approximately $3,000 to the fishermen, have been unloaded in San Francisco during a single day. The shark meat other than the liver is made into fertilizer.

Officials said the oil from shark livers is packed into five-gallon cans and shipped to refineries, where it is converted into a by-product to provide vitamin A for the California poultry industry.

Special permits for the special-type fishing gear used to catch the sharks have been issued by the state fish and game commission, N. B. Scofield, chief of the bureau of marine fisheries, reported.

The permits require that fishing be done within a restricted zone; that hooks be baited with salt fish, and that the fishermen retain a boat and operator for the use of the marine warden in the supervision of the fishing.

Most species of shark, according to Scofield, are heavy fish eaters and it is good conservation to reduce the number and destroy the advantage this species has over other fish caught for food or sport.

Seven-Year-Old Boy Rides Midget Size Motorcycle

ASHTABULA, OHIO. — Seven-year-old Donald Lindval is perhaps the youngest motorcycle rider in the country.

His father, Albert Lindval, a garage man here, completed a midget model for his son—a streamlined "baby" motorcycle, 24 inches in height, complete in every detail.

Little Donald runs the red, gold, black and chrome-plated machine about a circular track his father constructed, and eagerly is anticipating the day when he will become sufficiently expert to ride it to school.

Running cost is no worry to the young rider, for the price of an ice cream cone will take him 30 miles—as the machine goes about 125 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

The boy's father built the machine in a year from odd parts. The wheels are intended for use on light [illegible] he engineered and constructed by a German company.

"When I grow up," said Donald, shining a glistening headlight, "I am not going to be an airplane pilot or fireman like everybody else. I'll be a motorcycle man."

Amish Vote First Time; Save 'Red Schoolhouse'

BERNE, IND. — Approximately 100 members of the Old Amish church of Adams county voted for the first time in Berne and Monroe townships recently, and thereby prolonged the days of the "little red schoolhouse." A proposal to consolidate schools of the township and the town of Berne was defeated.

The Amish church forbids members to take part in politics or in any election. However, when the school proposal arose this fall many of them registered so they could voice their objections. They object to sending their children to consolidated or high schools.

Diamond-Studded Smile Sparkles for 23 Years

HUDSON, N. Y.—Jeremiah Ryan, retired restaurant proprietor, has a real diamond-studded smile. Years ago Ryan had three diamonds in a gold setting placed in his upper teeth and four in the lower. Today, dentists say the teeth and stones are as solid as when they were set in 1915.

Asked why he had the diamonds placed in his teeth, Ryan explained: "It was something I always wanted to do. In 1915 my customers wore diamonds on their fingers and in stickpins, so I decided to be different."

These Freshmen Look at Gift Fountain in Mouth

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, CAL. —Explosive freshmen of Stanford university called for a "dynamite fund" to dispose of an unwelcome drinking fountain, gift of alumni.

They called the $2,500 fountain a concrete mushroom and said it looked like a "combination Roman bath and half an orange peeling."

"Stanford's cherished soil has been desecrated by a monstrosity in concrete," said a letter to the Stanford Daily.

Oldest European Dye

The oldest known European dye was made from the herbaceous plant, reseda luteola, commonly called "weld." The name weld probably came from the old German word walda, from which the French word gaude was derived—the source of our own word "gaudy." To produce the popular gaude green of that day, the material to be dyed was first dipped in indigo and then in weld.

Eden Says State Worship Is Threat

time," he added, "howsoever long or short it may be, we hold fast to our faith, cradle it in stone, and set steel to defend it, we can yet hand on our inheritance of freedom, intact to the generations that are to come."

Worst Calamity

Eden emphasized that "a false complacency is the worst calamity that can befall any nation in critical times."

"To realize then," he said, "the extent of the challenge that confronts us, and to be conscious of shortcomings is not to proclaim that we are faint-hearted, still less to suggest that we are decadent. Let me say this with all emphasis."

Speaking of "certain standards in which we believe and which we will not yield up," Eden said:

"In our conception, a modern democratic state must be based upon racial and religious toleration. Each citizen must enjoy individual liberty, all must be equal before the law. The right of minorities and majorities alike must be honored and respected. These beliefs are, we are convinced, the basis of all progress. As an Englishman addressing this great American audience tonight, I tell you that these are the beliefs of our English people still, and that they will hold to them in the years that lie ahead."

World "Vigorous and Vital"

Eden looked at the modern world as "vigorous and vital, but ruthless and challenging, a world where force is for many the only [illegible]

"In such conditions," he said, "we know that we must believe in ourselves to live. We know that we must champion our ideals and the faiths to which we hold with an equal strength, or others which we abhor will take their place."

"We know that this endeavor to achieve democracy will once again tax our strength and our endurance to the uttermost. For all this in spirit we are preparing. Nor are we calling out for help to others, nor seeking to lure others to pull our chestnuts from the fire. We have no such intention."

Accompanying Eden on his first visit to this country were Mrs. Eden, Viscount and Viscountess Hinchingbrooke, Sir Martyn Beckett, and Ronald Tree, the latter a grandson of the late Marshall Field of Chicago.

The Edens will entrain Monday night for Washington, where they will be entertained by Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, until Wednesday, during which time Eden will see President Roosevelt.

Irwin to Dannemora

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 10 (AP)—Robert Irwin, triple slayer of Beekman Hill, was sent to Dannemora State Hospital last night following a diagnosis by Sing Sing prison doctors that he was "very definitely insane." Irwin, sentenced to 139 years for the murders of Model Ronnie Gedeon, her mother and a boarder, had been under constant guard in a padded cell for 11 days while three doctors under the direction of Amos T. Baker, director of the prison psychiatric division, studied his case. Prison officials said Irwin insisted that they transfer $500 he brought to prison with him to the Dannemora institution. He will arrive there tomorrow morning.

Held for Grand Larceny

Isaac Levy of Phoenicia was arrested Friday on a warrant charging grand larceny. He was arrested by State Troopers Ray Dunn and Walter Oburhaich of Phoenicia and turned over to State Trooper Michael Murray of Catskill who took Levy to Catskill and later to Lexington, Greene county, for arraignment. The complaint on which the warrant was issued involved a check for $202.

Jim Dennis Decisions Lewis In Auditorium Main Bout, Fatta Knocks Out Ruffo

That blonde flash from Binghampton, Jimmy Dennis, punched out a decisive decision over Bradley Lewis, international middleweight champion, in the main bout at the auditorium last night, sensationally bringing to a close a stellar card of scraps that was witnessed by a not-too-large attendance due to rainy weather.

As predicted, the upstater, a Diamond Belt winner, bore in from gong to gong and stood right up with the champion who recently returned from a successful South American tour with the amateur team that competed in several big tournaments. Lewis came back the only winner of all his battles.

But last night's date with Dennis was too much for Bradley, who was smothered with plenty of left hooks, and straight rights, one of which almost put him down in the second, but the Binghampton slammer lacked just that last spark of what it takes to store an opponent away for keeps.

Climaxing the exceptionally good fistic array, Dennis went to work early in the first round, but didn't solve the system of getting by Bradley's guard until the second which he won by a nice margin, and then continued in the role of victor in every one of the succeeding frames.

Many a sizzling left hook bounded off the jaw of the burly Lewis, and straight rights with plenty of dynamite in them, too, but Lewis kept right on, doing his share of the punching that made the fight one of the best the middleweight star ever fought here.

Only the second man to put it over Lewis, the other being Ralph DiCastro of Rome, Dennis won his way into the favoritism of the local fight crowd, many of whom considered Bradley invincible because of his string of wins over some of the best amateurs available.

Both battlers, tipping the beam at 160, were in tip top condition. However, Lewis blamed a long bus ride from New York as one draw-back. He didn't arrive in Kingston until half an hour before the gong sending him into action.

Full of fight, from the minute the match was made a week ago, Carmine Fatta rushed out of his corner and clamped the lid on Frankie Ruffo's chances for victory right at the first clang of Timer Mort Finch's gong, and finished their duel in 1:56 of the first round with a murderous right to the chin.

Twice before going down to stay, Ruffo, who eliminated Fatta from the Golden Gloves tournament last year in New York, hit the deck for counts of nine, once from a hard right as the two came together and the other time from a hard left hook.

There had been "bad blood" between the two ever since Fatta lost in the tournament and he vowed revenge last night. He got it. And it took 10 minutes to revive Ruffo, who planned on humiliating the little Newburgh lightweight before the eyes of his followers at the auditorium.

Showing one of the classiest attacks ever put on display by a fighter here, Harvey Lacelle of Binghamton, Canadian Olympic featherweight champion, outboxed and out-slugged Charley Forezzi, Albany trial horse, in a slashing five rounder that had the fans cheering all the way.

"I'd box Fatta only I'm too light for him now," said Lacelle when asked about meeting the Newburgher, "but, give me a chance to rest up, (he's had a string of hard fights recently) and to take on some extra weight."

Jess Caprotti, 128, Kingston's up and coming boxer, defeated Carlo Litz of Albany in five rounds.

Frankie Albright, Kingston featherweight, stopped Joe DiPolo, Albany, in the first round. Referee Emmett Ryan stopped the bout because of a cut over DiPolo's eye.

Frankie Yusko, 177, Hudson, decisioned Joe Bliss, 188, Ellenville in three rounds.

Tiny Townsend, Kingston lightweight, scored his second knockout in a row over Johnny Mirable, Albany, in 1:08 of the first round, catching him with a shower of punches that had him baffled before he could get his bearings.

The judges were Tommy Zano, professional fighter, from Glasco and Sammy Offerman, ex-ringster, just out of the hospital from an auto accident last summer.

There's a hitch in the plans for Melio Bettina's light-heavyweight championship trial, slated for January—Tiger Jack Fox cannot keep the date, physicians say, and, in fact, may never box again.

The Tiger is in critical condition from a stab wound, said by police to have been inflicted by a woman, yesterday, and lies in a Harlem hospital. His condition is critical.

Bettina, who began his ring career in Hudson valley bouts, boxing several times in the old Servicenter arena in Kingston, has had titular ambitions since Jimmy Grippo, his Beacon manager, piloted him to the position as a top ranking challenger, but what to do about the whole thing now is a matter for the boxing commission.

Fox recently defeated Al Gainer, the other member of the light-heavy trio ordered to fight it out for the title by the commission. Bettina has been training hard for the fight, and, according to sports writers who watched him, had very good chances of realizing his ambition as champion.

Whether the boxing solons will make Gainer, the other challenger box Bettina, or give Melio the preference over him as the claimant of the crown remains to be seen.

At the time the three drew papers out of a hat before the commission to decide their positions in the tournament, Manager Jimmy Grippo said, "I hope we draw Gainer, because he'd be easy for Bettina". So even if Melio isn't handed the crown, his chances may be better than if he mixed it with Fox, rated as a more vicious puncher than Gainer, and a smarter fighter.

An Associated Press report on the stabbing affray follows:

"Tiger Jack Fox, negro light heavyweight boxer who police said was stabbed during an altercation with a woman, was pronounced in a critical condition today at Harlem Hospital in New York city.

"Physicans said it was doubtful whether Fox, if he recovered, would ever be able to box again. He had been scheduled to meet Melio Bettina next month for New York State recognition as light heavyweight champion.

"Police said a woman they booked as Edna Boyd, 23, negro maid, told them she had stabbed Fox in self-defense early yesterday in a Seventh avenue hotel. She was held on a charge of felonious assault."

Barlund Loses Bout to Toles

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—They were saying today Roscoe Toles, the dusky Detroiter, had finished Finnish Gunnar Barlund's prospects in the American heavyweight preserve by a 10-round decision last night—but Toles' own rating wasn't helped much.

This was because the big Detroit negro kept firing a repeating right into Barlund's face throughout the fight last night only to find it was too small a calibre. Although the Finn was bleeding from the blows in the first round, he never was knocked down and succeeded in sending back an occasional shot to the midsection which showed Toles was not particularly rugged thereabouts.

Campbell Likes El Chico Horse

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—John B. Campbell, the Jockey Club's handicapper, figures William Ziegler, Jr., unbeaten colt, El Chico, two pounds better than any other juvenile racer of 1938, if all the leaders could be brought together for one big race.

In his annual "experimental handicap," announced today, Campbell gave El Chico the scale weight of 126 pounds and George D. Widener's Eight Thirty and William Woodward's Johnston, his nearest rivals, 124 pounds.

Tribe's New Coach

New Orleans, Dec. 10 (AP)—C. C. Slapnicka, vice president of the Cleveland Indians, announced here today that Oscar Melillo has been appointed to succeed Wally Schang as coach of the Tribe.

Colonials Play Thursday—Dennis Surprises Crowd

By Joe Kelly

Kingston High School basketball varsity is off on the right foot,...That win at Port Jervis in the DUSO League made it so. Kingston really looked good.... Local rooters were scarce, comes the report....Chris Warner, Shirley Goodsell and Rose Stopczynska were there....Also Bud Evans, Bill Murray and Jack Pierce....What about the crowd for that Newburgh game down there next Friday....And, the folks who stayed away from the fights last night missed a good card....Bad weather was one reason....Another was (confidentially) that they thought Bradley Lewis would have easy pickin's with Jimmy Dennis....What a wrong impression!...That Tiny Townsend sure is going to town under the direction of Kid Chaopie....Two kayoes in a row over Johnny Mirable is something... Mirable, a Schuyler High footballer, is considered plenty tough and rugged... Several good boys are being developed in Poughkeepsie and may appear here soon... Two of the kids, one Tony Gartex, want to settle a grudge.... That should be something.

The Clermonts kept their record clean in the Wallkill Valley League last night outscoring Tuxedo, 40-29 . . . Charley Bock went to town for the Shirtmakers with 13 points . . . 17 K. H. S. gridders are sporting varsity Ks, awarded yesterday . . . Cairo plays the White Eagles at their Delaware avenue court next Tuesday . . . The Downtown Merchants are on top of the City League, according to Secretary Pete Bruck's latest report on the standings . . . The prelims at the auditorium, to American League games, may show City League clubs in action, starting in a week or so . . . Fans are reminded that next week the Colonials play the Philly Hebrews on Thursday, December 15, instead of Wednesday . . . Barney Sedran's boys are idle for the week-end . . . Next Friday's fight card will have to be a honey to top last nights . . . The boys are in a huddle now preparing the show . . . Announcer Sam Riber is out for the count with illness and under the doctor's care . . .

Rumor is the Giants will announce the Zeke Bonura deal today or tomorrow....As soon as Clark Griffith and Horace Stoneham get together. . . . Davey O'Brien didn't have the most effective passing record among the Texas Christian pitchers....It was Ward Wilkinson, the fullback, who tossed just one pass all season and completed it for a 1,000 mark....Davey wound up with something over .500....Jack Dempsey is personally wowing the folks with trick stuff at his Broadway bar—cocktail glasses that light up, etc....Jack's having more fun out of it than a hotfoot....Looks likes the Green Bays over the Giants in the National Pro League championship tomorrow....Because no club can stay as hot as those Jints have been the past three weeks....Why does Joe Lous add that poundage?...He's satisfied with nothing less than one pie (complete) for dessert—any kind but lemon cream'll do—and goes for pork chops and eggs for breakfast.

Stoll, Fallon and Ashdown Lead Kingston High Varsity K Parade

In the regular "A" assembly Friday afternoon, President Irving Rose of the Athletic Association, awarded the traditional K's to the 1938 Kingston High School football team. Sixteen varsity letters were distributed. President Rose, awarding the letters, said in part:

"Even though the team failed to win the DUSO trophy this year, it did nevertbless come through with a few outstanding records. First of all the rugged Amsterdam team, one of the strongest in upper New York State was trounced while in the Liberty fracas the Maroon gridders pounded out a larger score, with 39 points, than any previous club.

"The first man to receive his letter is our past captain and standout-player on the team. He took the brunt of the passing attack and was a feature usually in the running part. This season marked the end of his high school career, This man is Vince Stoll, the captain and unanimous choice for every All DUSO team. Fallon who came up from nowhere to make the varsity grade. He was so popular that the team elected him the 1939 captain.

"The third important player on the team this year was Jimmy Ashdown who will return next season to continue his brilliant play. Jim has always been a dangerous man on any field."

Other gridders who were praised for their outstanding work were Bill "Curly" Cole, ace open field runner; Bill Powers, scrappy lineman; Jack Cook, Bill Von Essen, an outstanding end; Andy Murphy, who captured a starting berth, Joe Garland and Jay DeWitt.

Johnny "Smoke" Ennis, Bill Studer, Bill Darling, Kenny Douglas, Jack "Red" Leahy and Manager Mike Gulda came in for their share of glory. Following a tribute to the second string team, Miss Christine Warner, captain of the cheerleaders, awarded a K to Irv Rose.

After lauding Coaches G. Warren Kias, Ed Sylvester and Al Bruckert, President Rose gave the names of the boys who received junior K's. They were Gus Brinnier, Joe Clark, Bill Ellsworth, Ed Esposito, Frankie Mazzuca, Milt Tsitsera, John McCullough and Francis Stauble.

The following also received K's for their work on the jayvee team: Terwilliger, Ball, Benjamin, Bowers, Brinnier, Brown, Collins, Davis, H. Grunenwald, Gill, Hofbrauer, Heppner, Healey, Perry, Lemister, Ludetke, Mossin-[illegible] Shaw, Tucker and Walters.

The assembly came to a rousing end as the cheerleaders, led by Captain Christine Warner, gave an assortment of yells for the team, coaches, and the KHS band. This past season the band worked itself up into a No. 1 spot under the direction of Joan Craig, Eva Clinton, Leo Herbert and Ray Lindhurst.

Giants, Packers Clash Sunday For Grid Title

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Close to 60,000 fans will bank themselves in the Polo Grounds tomorrow to watch the New York Giants and the Green Bay Packers fight for the championship of the National Professional Football League.

It is the season's real "sugar" bowl game, with the players splitting 60 per cent of the gate receipts and the respective owners also doing very well.

Each member of the winning side will realize something like $600 to help him through the winter, while the losing gladiators will pocket about $400 a piece. This in addition to the fairly fat salaries they have received.

The scramble for seats has been so enthusiastic that even the federal agents are trying to find out what happened to all the seats between the 10 yard lines. Tim Mara, owner of the Giants, is trying hard to explain to their satisfaction.

The game is regarded as a toss-up, despite the fact the Giants gave the western division champions a thorough going-over on their last visit here. The Packers, on that occasion, gained practically all the ground, but the Giants scored the touchdowns. Tomorrow the Packers will have Don Hutson, the best pass receiver in the league, back in their line-up.

Kingston High Victorious Over Port Jervis by 45-22 As Shultis Cages 19 Points

Kingston High School varsity basketball team served notice last night that it is to be reckoned with as it pounded out an impressive 45 to 22 count over Lou Horsemen's Port Jervis Red and Black Raiders. In taking its eleventh straight game and the initial triumph of the current campaign, the Kiasmen never were threatened.

Jess Shultis, spearhead of the locals, ran true to form by gleaning 19 points to take scoring honors. Jim Harrison led the losers with 8. Next Friday Kingston travels to Newburgh for another DUSO battle.

A starting roster of Shultis, Flowers, Van Buren, Dubin and Murphy kept on in the game until the last quarter when Kias injected several men. Buddy Hughes was the first replacement in the second period. Even after Jess Shultis departed the Kiasmen rolled on to continue their onslaught.

Ray Lindhurst, who subbed for Harry Flowers in the fourth period, was the star in that session. He picked the wicket for six markers and proved to be the man Kias needs for any emergency in the future. "Whiskers" Dougherty and Hughes also came off with sparkling reserve performance.

Following the first toss-up, Shultis clicked off a layup and a foul which preceded Harrison's drifter from mid-court to make the count 3-2. Robinson placed Port in the lead for the only time of the game as he dribbled down half way and neatly sizzled the leather into the hoop from the side to make it 4-3. But after this the Maroon and White representatives put on a spree which was never halted.

After Shultis found the mark from the charity line Tommy Connelly, All DUSO center on the football team, rushed in for a duo marker which was followed by pouring blows from Milt Duoin and Ray Van Buren. Just before the opening stanza expired Connelly and Harrison made it 9 for Port while Shultis reached for another foul point. The scoreboard read 13 to 9.

At the start of the second session Buddy Hughes replaced Harry Flowers, and although he failed to do much goal-getting, the squatty star was exceptionally efficient on defense. Van Buren's layup and Hughes' set flip sandwiched in between Shultis' foul point made it 18 before Connelly stopped the Kingston rally. Walt Dunn added another side flip making it 18-13.

Murphy, Shultis and Flowers assaulted the hoop for points with random until Harrison bowed in and anchored a pushup from a melee by the Kingston net. Jess Shultis added five more chukkers before the half ended while Dunn and Harrison helped Port's cause with a foul, and a set shot. The score at the end of the half was 20-13. Kingston led at the end of the third quarter 33-20.

After Harrison whipped in a long range shot, Ray Lindhurst made his debut spectacularly in the last quarter as he twisted the opposing net for three straight deuces. Murphy, Dougherty and Van Buren followed Ray with an assortment of pushups and layups at ease which made the tally 45-22. Jimmy Ashdown went in for Milt Dubin, the scrappy guard, during the last period and also displayed his worth. Ray Van Buren's dribbler down the side lanes and a hurried toss to Dougherty polished up the Kingston scoring as the latter whistled in a set shot from the side. Aside from Harrison's shot, the first score of the period, the Maroon defense bottled up Port without any additional score.

Looks Like Hutch For the Pirates

New Orleans, Dec. 10 (AP)—The baseball moguls, finished with their bartering at the annual Minor League meeting, headed northward today for another session Tuesday at the Major League convention in New York.

Local fans speculated over a report that before the traders dispersed here, the Pittsburgh Pirates had purchased for $50,000 Fred Hutchinson, sensational pitcher of the Seattle Pacific Coast League team.

William E. Benswanger, president-treasurer of the Pirates, declined either to deny or affirm the rumor.

Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, asked if his team was dickering for Hutchinson, commented:

"Pittsburgh beat us to him."

Two former big league stars got jobs as minor league managers, Burleigh Grimes, Brooklyn's skipper last year, signed a two-year contract with Montreal, and Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, got a one-year contract with Chattanooga, in the southern association.

About Frisch?

What Frankie Frisch, former St. Louis Cardinal manager, would do, was problematical. He turned down an attractive offer to manage the New Orleans club in the southern association, saying he had several others to consider.

Memphis another southern association club reported it had signed Frank Brazill, formerly with the team, as its manager.

Business Reaches New High Peak Toward Recovery

As Barron's business index for the week ended December 3 showed business at 78.9 per cent of normal, a new high for the recovery movement, the output of automobiles—cars and trucks—was estimated at 100,705 for this week, the largest in 16 months and comparing with 85,765 in the same week last year. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors, said that his company planned to continue through December its November production rate of 200,000 units. This would make the second largest December output for the company, the peak having been in December, 1936, when the total was 239,000 units. The company will curtail output after the first of the year, for the winter season.

Carloadings made a more than seasonal gain in the week ended December 3. Total was 649,986, an increase of 87,002 over the previous week and a gain of 28,761 over the 1937 period, a more than seasonal gain.

With inventories the lowest in three years, earnings of Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. for the fourth quarter are expected to exceed those of the first nine months. Rise is due to increased auto output.

George H. Houston, chairman of the industrial finance committee of the National Association of Manufacturers, told the convention that a vast amount of capital, estimated at from $50,000,000 to $70,000,000 is missing from American business today as compared with 1929. Major factors blocking flow of new capital into productive enterprises are burdensome taxes and legislative restriction, both present and possibly future additions.

Marking the fourth successive month in which there has been a balance after all charges Southern Railway is estimated to have had a net income of around $250,000 in November. In the same month last year the road had a loss of $290,731. The road plans purchase of 2400 all-steel freight cars and 25 express cars and will sell $6,000,000 equipment issue to RFC.

Department store sales for the week ended December 3 were two per cent below the same last year, according to figures released by the Federal Reserve Board and covering the nation as a whole. In the New York district the drop was one per cent.

National Supply Co. declared a dividend of 75 cents on six per cent prior preferred and 68¾ cents on the 5½ prior preferred. Both are half the regular quarterly rates. No action was taken on quarterly dividend on $2 preference stock. American Agriculture Chemical declared 35 cents on new common stock. Melville Shoe voted final of 12½ cents on common, making a total of $3 for the year vs. $5 paid in 1937. Reflecting markedly unfavorable conditions in the canning industry, California Packing Corp. voted to suspend regular common dividend, reduce executive salaries and suspend contributions to the employes annuity plan.

Aetna Life Ins. Co. returned to 30 cent dividend rate, in effect until 1932, declaring a quarterly of that amount and a 15-cent extra.

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Stocks dug in for a modest rally today with market leaders retrieving fractions to a point or so of recent losses.

Steels, Aircrafts, Motors, mail orders and specialties were favored the greater part of the time, although none stepped very far out in front. Rails and utilities hugged a slim groove. There were a few fair-sized losers in evidence at the close.

Bonds were selectively higher and some commodities improved.

Among stocks on the rising side were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, American Can du Pont, U. S. Gypsum, General American Transportation, Paramount, Allied Chemical, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, North American, Trans-America and U. S. Rubber.

National supply, weak yesterday on dividend cuts, chipped down an early loss of 2 points. N. Y. shipbuilding preferred was a backslidder for several points.

Automotive shares were aided by comments of General Motors officials that this concern probably would maintain its November production rate of 200,000 units throughout December. This would represent the second largest December output in the history of the corporation.

Light offerings kept Roller Reed Bit, Electric Bond & Share, Raymond Concrete Pile and Cities Service in the background in the curb. Colts Patent Fire Arms ran up more than 1.

Life of Sappho, Poetess Of Greece, Holds Mystery

Little is known of the life of Sappho, greatest poetess of Greece, and with a few exceptions only fragments remain of her poems, remarkable for their extreme simplicity of language and intensity of emotion, relates a writer in the New York World-Telegram.

Until 50 years ago her verse survived only in quotations found in the works of ancient authors. Since that time there have been recovered from the soil of Egypt papyrus rolls containing apparently authentic texts of her poetry, copied during the Second to Seventh centuries, A. D.

Sappho was a native of the Island of Lesbos, probably born about 600 B. C. and probably a member of the aristocratic Mytilenean family. The astonishing simplicity of her poems, apparently written in the every day language of the people with whom she lived, and the flaming quality of both her loves and hates have baffled translators, who say that she cannot be appreciated fully except by those able to read her original Greek texts.

Business Men to Meet on Tuesday

The Central Business Men's Association will meet Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. to discuss several important matters. As this meeting is of interest to every business man in the central section of the city it is expected that it will be largely attended.

Payments Are Easier

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported evidence today that city home-owners are finding it easier to meet the mortgage payments. It said there were 8,773 foreclosures on urban homes in October, a decline of 8.4 per cent from September and of 80 per cent from October, 1937.

B. & O. Wreck at Defiance, Ohio

Defiance, O., Dec. 10 (AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad's eastbound Fort Pitt limited left the rails near here early today, causing injuries to two women sufficiently serious to require hospital treatment.

Many other passengers were treated for minor cuts and bruises at the scene of the accident near Holgate, 10 miles east of here.

The women were brought to a Defiance hospital by ambulance. Attendants said their condition was not serious.

R. M. Shaw, who drove the ambulance reported eight of the train's 10 coaches were derailed. Some of these, he said, plunged deep into mud at the base of embankments.

The ambulance operator said two engines which drew the limited remained on the tracks.

"The steel cars sank almost five feet in the mud and many passengers were helped out through windows," Shaw said.

Nearly all passengers were taken to Deshler, about 25 miles east of here, and there boarded another east-bound train, Shaw said.

rate (1½c stamps) are disposed of as waste each year because they are undeliverable as addressed, due to removal of the addressee or other cause. Such greetings are not entitled to free forwarding privilege accorded those mailed and sealed at the first class postage rate. Consequently the senders never know that the greetings were not received by the addressee. This would not occur if greetings were sent sealed at the first class rate.

In view of the foregoing, the postmaster urges that all mailers send their holiday greetings at the first class rate, as when so sent they may contain written messages not otherwise permitted, therefore having a personal appeal which is, of course more highly appreciated by the recipients. Such greetings are dispatched and delivered first, given directory service and if necessary forwarded without charge and also if undeliverable are returned without charge to sender, provided return address is shown on the envelope.

Gets Diapers

San Francisco, Dec. 10 (AP)—The thief who stole one of three suitcases in Eric Moeller's parked automobile furnished the owner a good laugh. Two of the bags contained clothing valued at several hundred dollars. But the other bag was full of diapers for the Moeller baby. That's the one the thief grabbed.

Pope Has Grandniece

Milan, Dec. 10 (AP)—A daughter was born today to Count and Countess Franco Ratti, giving Pope Pius a new grandniece. A word of blessing from the pontiff came shortly after the news was communicated to him. The count is a nephew of the Pope, who was born Achille Ratti.

Ellenville Firm Files for Increase

A certificate of increase in amount of capital stock and authorization for new shares and of classification of the shares has been filed by Dwight Divine & Sons, Inc., of Ellenville. The total amount of capital stock authorized by certificate of incorporation in 1925 was $400,000. This was reduced in 1932 to $100,000, all being common stock of a par value of $100.

Under the certificate filed now the capital stock is increased to $120,000 to consist of 1,200 shares of stock with a par value of $100. The stock is classified into 1,000 shares of common stock and 200 shares of cumulative perferred 5% stock.

The application for the increase in stock is made by C. Dwight Divine, John H. Divine, Alice Divine and Jessie Divine Young.
